Sell Ontario Place, Ward proposes

PC candidate wants to privatize popular park

Area PC candidate Art Ward has proposed that Ontario Place be sold to private interests and the money used to establish six other themed attractions in cities and towns across the province.

Ward announced the proposal at press conferences in Toronto, Peterborough and Omeme on Tuesday. He said it stems from the three years he spent as a member of the board of Ontario Place Corporation, the public body which administers the operations of the park on the shore of Lake Ontario south of Exhibition Place in Toronto.

Ontario Place was established 15 years ago using public funds, and in subsequent years it acted as a catalyst for waterfront development in Toronto, and provided entertainment and recreational opportunities for millions of Ontario residents, as well as visitors.

Now, however, there are "problems looming on the horizon," according to Ward. The Blue Jays and Argonauts will move from exhibition stadium to the new domed stadium two years from now, and that change of venue will have a significant impact on attendance at Ontario Place, Ward believes. Presently provincial taxpayers contribute $1.50 in subsidies for every person who passes through the gates of Ontario Place, and Ward said the figure will rise after the Blue Jays and Argonauts move to a new venue.

To eliminate that drain on the public purse, he proposes that Ontario Place be sold to private interests for $110 million, and the proceeds divided equally among six other Ontario communities: Brockville, Sarnia, Omeme, North Bay, Sault Ste. Marie and Thunder Bay. In each of these locations a themed park would be developed with matching funds from the private sector. Each new park would have a cinesphere, a forum and exhibit halls similar to those at Ontario Place, as well as restaurants and a marina where appropriate.

"The same idea that was used in the early 70's can be used for the six new locations," Ward said. "I believe the towns that I have chosen are ideal settings."

Brockville, being close to the border with the United States and located on the St. Lawrence River, could draw a substantial number of American visitors, as could Sarnia and Sault Ste. Marie. The Omeme location could focus on agricultural heritage and the latest farm technology, Ward said. He envisions its forum becoming a focal point for country and western music, a sort of 'Nashville north.' It could also become a permanent site for the international plowing match which now moves from community to community.

The other locations also would lend themselves to particular themes, Ward said.

Among the benefits he envisions if the proposal were implemented is a circuit for top quality international entertainment, as well as for IMAX films developed specifically for Ontario Place.

Ward said he believes the public money that has flowed into Ontario Place "has served its usefulness" and the attraction "needs an injection of fresh capital from the private sector to meet the challenges ahead."

Among the private sector interests which might be approached to purchase Ontario Place are Disney, Taft, the operators of Six Flags facilities, Edmonton's Ghermezian brothers, Labatts and Molsons.

"I think Ontario Place has lost a bit of its pizzazz and needs rejuvenation that isn't hamstrung by bureaucracy and government interference," Ward said.

Ward said that to his knowledge, the idea he unveiled on Tuesday has never been discussed by provincial officials.

"I think it's a very progressive and a very creative proposal that I've had in mind since I sat on the board and saw what the problems were."

Caution urged on Redstone

Development on Little Redstone Lake will be limited to 17 new lots on the southern shore, Dysart et al council has decided, after studying the recommendations of a consulting firm which conducted a water quality study on the lake last summer.

Greer Galloway and Associates and P.D. Niblett and Associates were asked to study the lake last summer to help council rule on whether to allow a proposed 34 lot subdivision by Shall-May Holdings, represented by developer Gary Vasey.

The study identified two distinct basins in Little Redstone, a northern basin above the inlet of the Little Redstone River, where the bulk of cottage lot development has taken place, and a southern basin below the largest of the lake's three islands. For the purposes of the study the consultants considered two possibilities — that water in the two basins mixes entirely at least twice a year, and that water in the two basins does not mix at all. If the lake waters do 'turn over' and mix entirely in spring and fall, as is known to happen in many lakes, the consultants said only an additional 17 lots could be accommodated on the lake. If the two basins do not mix, the consultants said the southern basin could safely accommodate 39 lots. But in either case, they found that the northern basin, where the majority of the 126 lots on the lake are located, is "already over-developed."

"Since the northern basin appears to be separate from the southern one, it is reasonable to expect that as the balance of the vacant lots in this area are developed, water quality problems will become noticeable," the consultants stated in their report to council. "To prevent this from occurring, we recommend that council develop a strategy, in conjunction with ratepayer groups and provincial agencies, to reduce the phosphorous loadings on this portion of the lake."

"We also recommend that council consider the implications of conversion of seasonal to permanent residential cottages on this lake.

Such conversion, if widespread, would decrease the ability of the lake to remain a Level 1 lake, even if no additional cottages were built."

In light of the study's recommendations, council has decided it will not allow more than 17 lots on the southern basin of the lake, unless further research is carried out to document current flows.

Shall-May Holdings has revised its development plans and now proposes to create 13 lots by plan of subdivision on the peninsula that separates Little Redstone from Big Redstone. The plan currently has been sent to Ontario's housing ministry for draft approval.

CHACE lease terminated, group seeks new location

The parents, children and staff of CHACE Place need help finding a new home. At the child enrichment centre on Thursday, when more than 80 people gathered to celebrate its fourth birthday, administrator Marilou Mizzan told the parents and children this would be the last birthday celebrated at the old Lakeview school and that if anyone had any ideas of where they could move to, they'd be most welcome.

It turns out Sir Sandford Fleming College, which subleases half of the school to CHACE, needs the rooms for the same reasons the drop-in centre does—the classrooms are perfectly suited to its needs.

With the programs at the local levels expanding all through the year, director Barb Bolin says it was no longer feasible to rent out the three classrooms to CHACE while having to rent other space to conduct their classes. Quite often, the places they have to rent are not designed as classrooms and it meant having to carry a lot of equipment from space to space. The programs, such as Futures or the job training for women, require a more appropriate

Sewer line tenders expected to be set sometime in July

Tenders are expected to be called in June for the sewer line extension to the north side of Lake Kashagawigamog. Dysart clerk Wayne Wood said the municipality "had hoped it would be much sooner, but we have had some problems with drawings" and other preliminary work.

The line will service commercial properties along Highway 121 in the Haliburton area, and a number of lodges, including the PineStone Inn, Locarno, Wig-a-mog and Deer Lodge. It is expected to facilitate major expansion programmes at several of the resorts, which have been hampered by the costs and limitations of tile beds and other methods of sewage handling.

Project will mean more development for resorts

The Dysart clerk said Ontario's Environment Ministry, which is footing a major portion of the bill for the new line, has asked for a number of changes in the preliminary engineering drawings, and resorts have also needed time to determine where the line should be located on their property so future expansion will not be hindered. More than a dozen pumping stations will be needed to operate the line, and Ontario Hydro as well as Bell Canada are being consulted as the planning process continues.

Despite the delays, council remains hopeful that the line can be completed this fall.

Because of the project's size and government bond requirements, no local contractor is able to bid on the entire line, but it is expected that some trucking and machine work will be carried out by local workers.

Community supports pool

More than 800 people have voiced their support for a new community swimming pool and local organizers are now going to draft a proposal to be presented to the Dysart council outlining the reasons why Haliburton needs its own swimming pool.

The need for a community pool became evident last winter when the Red Cross swim program had to be cancelled. Many children benefited by the lessons on swimming techniques and water safety, lessons that are particularly needed in an area with so many lakes, and parents were sad and angry this opportunity would be lost.

A few of them gathered to try to do something about it. The idea of having an indoor pool has been mullied around for a long time, but up until now, it has been given no impetus by a local group. Pam Brohm, Vicki

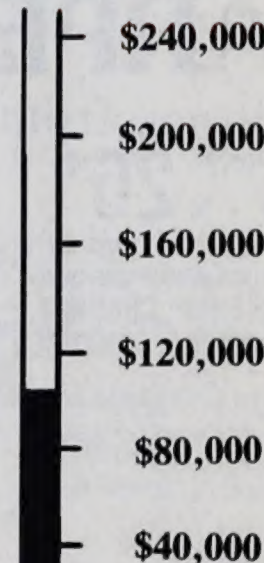

Ross, Karoul Tabala, Mike Easton, Catherine Hodgson-McMahon, and Joan and Ray Scott are heading up a committee set up to investigate whether people were in favour of having a pool built and how to go about doing it.

Ads were placed in the Echo, asking people to contact Pam Brohm of Eccentric Wardrobe if they wanted a community pool. She was chosen as a contact simply because her store is located on the main street and she is easily accessible. As of this week, more than 800 names have been compiled and there may be more still coming in.

When people began showing their support, Brohm and Easton talked to the Minister of Tourism and Recreation, John Eakins, about what they should do to get funding. Eakins said funding was available

Vehicles sideswiped

Rodney McCormick, age 35, of Sudbury, has been charged with Dangerous Driving and two counts of Fail to Remain under the Criminal Code. The incident began shortly after 7:00 p.m. Thursday April 16, when a vehicle was reported to police as being operated in an erratic manner near Tory Hill. The black Ford pick up was reported a few minutes later as side swiping a car at Loon Lake and leaving the scene. A second vehicle was struck in Haliburton and the black Ford again left the scene. The vehicle was stopped in the area of the highschool and the driver arrested. Minor injuries were sustained by a passenger in the second collision.

McCormick is scheduled to appear in Provincial Court, Minden, on June 3.

Skateboard dangers

Kids and parents are reminded of the hazards of playing on roadways. Kids on skate boards can cause great danger to themselves and vehicles because of the lack of control. Several near misses have been reported to police over the past few weeks. Have your child skate board in safety, off the roadway.

Proof that seatbelts work

In the four counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Northumberland and Haliburton (including City and Towns) there were 5,029 motor vehicle accidents in 1985. By severity, 52 accidents brought fatal injuries to 63 people; 1,960 accidents involved personal injury leaving 3,106 people injured, and 3,017 accidents occurred in which only damage to vehicles resulted. While accidents in these four counties amounted to only 2.6 percent of the provincial total for total numbers of accidents and number of persons injured, our fatality rate is 5 percent of the total in the province.

In the Province of Ontario 502 drivers were killed and 333 passengers died. In fatalities with drivers killed, 50.7 percent of those drivers were not wearing seat belts and in a further 18.5 percent of the accidents seat belt use remains unknown.

In fatal accidents with passengers killed, 51.9 percent of the victims were not wearing seat belts with a further 15 percent of the victims use of seat belts being unknown.

The question to be answered is "Would have any of these fatal accidents been reduced through the use of seat belts?"

From an enforcement perspective, the Ontario Provincial Police are convinced that strict but fair seat belt enforcement will reduce the fatality rate. Enforcement will also reduce the injury rate. Consequently, the "April Seat Belt Awareness Program" philosophy is based in both education and increased enforcement. In the first week of operation, a total of 295 motorists were charged with seat belt violations in the Peterborough District. It is hoped through this article and the three preceding releases that members of the public who both drive and ride in vehicles will voluntarily comply with seat belt legislation.

Seat belts can save lives only if they are used. You can make the difference in reducing injuries to both yourself and your passengers - insist on everyone buckling up.

Minden council briefs...

At a meeting April 9, Anson, Hindon and Minden council considered the following matters:

Harry Southern outlined his proposal to Council to construct a building containing three commercial units on the ground level and six two bedroom residential apartments on the second level. Chief Building Official Peter Oomen reported that the current zone, GCA, permits this proposed use. Southern confirmed his intention to commence construction in the fall of 1987.

MUNICIPAL NOTES

Peter Mathwick outline his proposal to Council to construct a motel, coffee-shop, parking garage and accessory residence on his land on the east side of Highway 35. Peter Oomen reported that these uses are permitted under the current G.C.B. zone. Mathwick noted his intention to complete this project in phases, and that M.T.C. approval would be granted soon. Mathwick was advised to discuss the matter of water and sewer hook-ups with Gene Newell, Chief Operator. Council agreed that arrangements for the phasing of this project should be addressed in a formal agreement.

A petty cash fund in the amount of $500 was established for the Minden Museum Committee to use for the acquisition of artifacts, using the funds on deposit in the Museum Reserve Accounts.

Council endorsed a resolution passed by the Council of the Township of Horton regarding capital funding to small municipalities for the purchase of motorized firefighting equipment.

Robert Cairnes outlined to Council his proposal to construct eight motel units as a two-storey addition to Heather Lodge.

Council approved the project in principle subject to review and approval of site plan and drawings.

Norm Mills attended to discuss with Council his plans for offering snack bar services to his customers. He noted that he has rejected the idea of installing a permanent snack bar in one corner of the auction barn since Fire Code requirements were so stringent. He confirmed that he would be using a trailer (6'6" x 14') as a mobile refreshment vehicle for use at this site as well as in other locations where he holds auctions. Council concurred with this proposal. Licensing Officer Peter Oomen confirmed that a licence for such a vehicle could be issued pursuant to By-Law 80-28.

Robert Cowan of the Frank Cowan Company Limited and Mr. Don Hall, Broker, attended before Council to present a quotation for municipal insurance coverage for 1987-88, including full environmental coverage, in the amount of $34,542.

A second written quotation was received from OME Insurance Brokers Limited in the amount of $24,796. plus $5,000 for Environmental coverage. Council voted to accept the OME quotation.

Dysart briefs...

At its April meeting, Dysart et al council considered the following matters.

The offer of William Stamp for Lot 4, Plan 19R2953, in the amount of $5,500. was accepted as per the terms set out by Stamp.

The VON will be allowed to remain in their present quarters for the balance of this fiscal year at which time the Township would like to renegotiate the lease.

The tender of JAC Kernohan Construction for the screening and stock piling of 7,000 yards of Winter Sand at West Guilford was accepted, in the amount of $1.05 per cubic yard. The work to be undertaken as soon as possible subject to the approval of the M.T.C. Municipal Engineer.

The Reeve and Clerk will review By-Law 86-26 reference the refinancing of the Haliburton Water Pollution Control System, making those changes referred to in the letter from the Ministry of the Environment, dated March 20, 1987, as requested by the Ontario Municipal Board.

The tender of T. Casey & Sons for crushing Municipal requirements for 1987 (20,000 yards - two sets) in the amount of $1.64 per yard was accepted. Work is to be undertaken as soon as possible.

The Municipality will make available a portion of the Rotary Beach lands to hold a Jet Ski Competition on Head Lake on June 20 and 21, 1987, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and Kawasaki Motors Canada Limited.

The offer of Petrini Construction for Lot 10, Industrial Park, in the amount of $4,000 was accepted.

Bishop and Wilson will be retained to survey the Ballfield and Parking area at Harcourt in order that lease/purchase arrangements may be concluded with Martin Lumber and Chester Schwandt.

The August 1987 Civic Holiday will be held September 21, 1987.

Council had no objection to the granting of a Dining Room License to Eaters Restaurant at Fort Irwin, provided service on the patio is discontinued at 10:00 p.m.

Chip Trueman was granted permission to install a sewage line from his property (Block S - Lot 5) on George Street to the sewage main on Eastern Avenue. The Municipality assumes no liability for the pipe line in the future.

The Planning Administrator be instructed to advise the Ministry of Natural Resources that Council had no objection to the bridge as proposed by Wyllie and Ufnal Consultants for Halcan Holdings (Part Lot 19, Concession VIII, Guilford Township, Redstone River) provided all necessary approvals are obtained, the bridge is posted advising the public that the bridge is not publicly maintained and users do so at their own risk, and the applicant signs an indemnity agreement with the Municipality.

RURAL RESIDENTS CAUTIONED ABOUT WILDFIRE HAZARD

Rural residents of southern Ontario are advised of the potential for brush or trash fires getting out of control, particularly over the next few weeks, says the Ministry of Natural Resources. Hazardous conditions exist from just after the snow melts until the new grasses and foliage have begun to grow.

Ninety percent of all spring wildfires or unplanned fires are caused by people attempting to burn debris. The results of a wildfire may be the loss of highly-valued homes, barns, cottages, tree plantations, or Crown forests.

You can greatly reduce the potential for wildfires by disposing of all rubbish and debris at an authorized disposal site where possible.

When burning is done the following precautions must be taken to ensure it is done safely:

- Remember to burn only during the cooler hours of early morning or evening.
- Never burn on a dry day or windy day.
- Always have some fire fighting equipment such as a shovel, or water nearby.
- Never leave a fire until it is "DEAD OUT".
- Be aware of local by-laws and regulations regarding debris burning.
- A fire permit is required.

Another safe burning practice would be to burn debris in a fireproof, enclosed container located on bare mineral soil or rock and at least five metres from any flammable material.

Should a wildfire occur always report it IMMEDIATELY to the nearest fire department or Ministry of Natural Resources office. The following fire information should be reported:

- location of fire (township, lot, concession);
- any high-valued property threatened (buildings, etc.);
- approximate size of fire now;
- any water sources nearby (streams, lakes, etc.);
- what is the easiest access to the fire.

It is important to leave your name and phone number in case additional information is required.

Preventing wildfires is mostly common sense.

Swimming pool supported through the different branches of government and what they should do first is write a letter to his ministry saying they were investigating the idea and would be looking for funding.

This done, the group now wants to take its proposal to the municipality, since they want the pool to be built in Haliburton village.

"We felt that if we had enough support, we should be able to go to our council and say we're asking you as our local representatives, to look into building a pool here," Brohm says. All the people on the survey are taxpayers in the municipality and by their names are indicating this is something they want their tax dollars spent on, she adds.

A delegation will go to a future council meeting once their proposal is written up, with one person making the presentation.

The benefits of having a year-round pool are not just for the people who enjoy swimming, Brohm adds. A full-time recreation director would need to be hired to ensure maximum use is made of the pool and perhaps this person could also coordinate activities at the arena, which at present is under-utilized. Local students could be hired as instructors of the programs and it would also be possible to hire senior workers who may just want to work a few days a week. The construction industry would of course be helped when the pool is being built.

If the pool facilities are kept going throughout the day, Brohm believes it could go a long way in paying for the costs of operations, but only if they were "properly and professionally maintained."

"We could really have something going here in a few years," says Brohm, adding that if a pool is approved, raising funds won't conflict with the recent hospital expansion fund because it will take a couple of years to bring the idea into full swing.

CHACE must find a home

space and the rooms CHACE now occupies fit the bill.

The problem is the rooms are also perfect for the needs of the approximately 35 people a day who make use of the toys, programs, books and fellowship CHACE has to offer. There's plenty of natural sunlight, windows can be opened to let in the fresh air, it's centrally located yet far enough away from a busy road, there's plenty of parking, lots of yard outside for the children to play in and there are not too many stairs for parents to have to worry about.

"It's all the little extra things we may not be able to give them" that the parents are concerned about, says Mizzan. Everyone realizes how lucky they have been to have the facilities they are in, and when it comes to finding a new home, it's going to be hard to accept it might be less than perfect. "The parents have accepted there is no other place like it."

Some parents have been very vocal in their objections to having to move, saying it was another example of how young children and young families don't get any recognition. CHACE Place fills a vital role in the lives of many families in the area, and by not renewing the lease, those parents believe it's another problem they have to deal with.

At present, there are 145 family memberships to CHACE, though you don't have to be a member to drop by the facility any weekday. The drop in centre allows parents to meet with other parents who they may find are experiencing the troubles and joys. It can be very lonely for women with young children if they have no close neighbours to meet with, and anytime you drop by at CHACE, there's always plenty of other parents to meet with.

The children really like CHACE too, and not just because of the great toys and arts and crafts room. Interacting with other children is an important part of their development and the friendships they make mean a lot to their sense of well-being.

"It gives a break for the parents and a break for the kids," says Mizzan. Every day a new face shows up at CHACE and it is an ideal way for people of all ages to get to know one another. "It's been a place where a lot of friends have been made."

Finding a new home has turned out to be a difficult task. A location may have one or two of the requirements but fail in different areas, such as lighting, air circulation, safe access, outdoor area, and suitable space (CHACE needs approximately 1,660 to 1,800 square feet to operate.) Everyone seems to prefer to sell their homes rather than rent them and several leads have proven to be disappointments.

"We have to make do with what we get but I'm sure we're going to find something," says Mizzan.

When administrators learned last week that the final deadline would be July 1st, Mizzan was telling parents "now we're really desperate." In December, they had been told the lease would not be renewed at the end of March and they could continue using the building on a month to month basis but summer courses were already being planned for the facilities.

Any suggestions of where a new home can be found would be appreciated by everyone at CHACE Place.

Thieves cut hole in wall, pry open safe and escape

An undisclosed amount of money has been stolen from Easton's Minden Valumart store sometime Saturday evening. Police are looking for two or three people who cut a hole in the wall of the building and then pried through the layers of the metal safe to get at the cash it held. Forty cartons of cigarettes also were stolen.

On Sunday morning, the manager of the store, Bill Kulas, arrived to find thieves had used tin snips to cut a hole in the metal sheeting of the wall on the east side at the south end of the store. A hole, approximately two by four feet was then punched through the inside wall so the thieves could gain access to the entire building.

Police say that once inside the store, the thieves used a wood-splitting maul, pry bar and crow bar to work their way through layers of metal encasing the safe. No blow torch was used and it is suspected there was more than one person involved since the safe was moved and it is quite heavy. The amount of money taken from the safe is still undetermined.

Footprints were found throughout the store, including at the front, and it is obvious the thieves looked for other sources of money.

The OPP's identification unit from Peterborough was called in and while no fingerprints were found, they did take photographs of the footprints.

Heritage walks planned again this summer

The heritage walks which proved popular with visitors to Haliburton last summer will continue this summer, and Dysart council is expected to contribute $500 to the programme.

At a meeting last Monday, council had no objections to a request from the walk organizers for a grant increase to $500 from the $300 council contributed last summer.

The walks, which begin at the town dock, will once again be scheduled once a week throughout July and August. Local residents guide the walks, and give visitors an insight into the community's 120 year history.

Barbara Dawson, chairman of the Haliburton Hospital Expansion Fund, was pleased to accept a cheque for $5,000 from Haliburton Rotary Club president Dale Robinson. The service club will donate $25,000 altogether and the first installment was presented at Thursday's meeting when Dawson was guest speaker.

Plans for wing completed

The architect's plans for the new Haliburton Hospital continuing care unit have finally been agreed on, the expansion fund chairperson, Barbara Dawson, announced at last Thursday's Rotary Club meeting. Dawson attended the meeting to talk about the new unit and to receive a $5,000 cheque from president Dale Robinson, the first of five installments of a $25,000 donation.

As you drive into the existing hospital, the continuing care unit will be built off the back-left corner of the hospital, pointing away from the lake. Many considerations had to be taken into account, Dawson said, and there were many plans which could not satisfy the needs of the patients as well as the government planning rules.

One of the primary considerations of the planners was the patient's privacy. Because most patients will be staying at the hospital over extended periods of time, the rooms cannot be built like those in a typical acute care hospital. While two people may be sharing a room, the partition dividing their living quarters will be far more than a curtain stretched between two beds. More room for physiotherapy is also needed, as well as an activity room and large dining area.

By September 30, it is hoped the necessary $240,000 from the private sector can be raised. More than 31,000 donation cards were sent with the property tax bills and replies were received from places as far away as London, England; Australia, the United States and Alberta. However, now that the deadline for payment of the tax bills has passed, there has been a marked decrease in donations coming in through the mail and "that's why we now have to dig in," Dawson said. Any fundraising ideas are still welcome.

Responding to a question posed by Cliff Dawson, who has headed up the committee planning and building the new senior citizens' apartment building, Dawson said it is hoped that tenders can be called for the addition by mid-summer. When the tenders do start coming in, she hopes the committee's original cost estimate will prove to be a correct one.

The plans have run into a few cost snags already, she noted. Fire safety regulations are constantly being revised and now a $68,000 alarm system has to be installed in the old segment of the hospital. There's also the $70,000 price tag of an elevator which wasn't budgeted for. The money has to come from somewhere, says Dawson, but since the public has been asked to contribute $240,000, she wants to keep it at that.

There'll be no problem in filling the beds, she responded to another question. Haliburton County has the highest percentage of senior citizens in the province and there's already a definite need for even more acute-care beds. Dr. Harry Good added that the rooms could be filled with patients of Extensicare today, and that doesn't count the many people who have previously had to find medical care outside the county.

'Army' sponsorship changed

Sponsorship for the Salvation Army congregation in Haliburton has been switched from Bracebridge to Fenelon Falls, a move which the commanding officer believes will better allow the church to serve the needs of the people in this area.

"There's a closer tie to the two communities," says Captain Robert Barnetson of Fenelon Falls. "We have more in common."

When the Salvation Army pulled out of Haliburton a few years ago because a church here was no longer feasible, the Bracebridge charge was given the responsibility. But because of the distance between the two communities, sometimes those responsibilities were hard to fulfill.

"As I worked out of Fenelon Falls, I realized the Army wasn't meeting some of the social needs," said Cpt. Barnetson, and he inquired if a switch could be made. Over the next months, he'll be doing some groundwork in re-establishing the Army's presence in Haliburton, perhaps with the future plan of having a new church in the community led by one of the students from the Army's college.

The Red Shield Appeal will bring the Salvation Army into the limelight this month, but Cpt. Barnetson is hoping to bring a couple of bands up here in the summer to continue that awareness.

A dream

It may seem at first like an overly ambitious dream, but it is well to remember that nothing is accomplished except by those who dare to imagine things that do not yet exist. The dream is to have a community swimming pool in Haliburton, and so long as there are people committed to make it a reality, it is a dream worth pursuing.

For a long time no one has thought much about a pool in Haliburton. The community is, after all, situated on a lake, and water is everywhere in the Highlands. Of course, not everyone has waterfront property, but the municipality has ensured that there are public access points on every body of water, and most large lakes also have public parks with beaches. Despite these steps — and they should be recognized as positive — swimming opportunities remain limited for a great many people, not only because the season is short, but because access points are not convenient for everyone. Local lodges have made their pools available to the public for various swimming programmes, and that has been much appreciated, but the demands of business must come first, so lodge pools are not a suitable alternative to a public pool in the view of people who have considered the situation carefully.

There is no doubt that a swimming pool would be expensive to build and expensive to maintain. There is little point in building a pool that cannot serve the community's long term needs, and that means it must be a 50 metre pool housed in a recreational complex that would offer other amenities as well. Local taxpayers will not be able to foot the entire bill for such a project, no matter how supportive they may be of the concept. If Haliburton is to have a community pool, lottery funds will have to be injected into the project by the Province of Ontario. But what better use can there be of such 'voluntary taxes' than to help construct a swimming pool to offer fitness opportunities to a growing population?

A project as major as a swimming pool cannot be undertaken without careful study. The costs of construction and maintenance will have to be closely determined before anyone can make a commitment to proceed with a pool. It will not in all likelihood be in place for some time, perhaps three to five years, but as a community goal, it has much to recommend it. The dream will not die without a thorough examination of all the facts, and if the numbers look at all favourable, it is certain that the core of people who initiated the idea of a community pool will see it through to completion. In the meantime, if you live in Dysart and you favour the idea of a community pool, be sure to sign your name to the lists that are being gathered in several area stores.

From time to time the Echo receives letters to the editor which are not signed. And that's a shame, because no matter how well written the letter may be, and no matter how important the issue it addresses, it cannot be published. For legal as well as ethical reasons, we insist that a letter writer must be prepared to stand behind his or her views before they can appear in the newspaper. Most people share that view, and would think it unfair if the newspaper allowed letter writers to hide behind signatures such as "a concerned citizen."

This week, we received on such letter from a person who is upset with the fact that many people light grass fires in the spring and fail to keep them under control. Local fire departments often are called out to battle these blazes. This is more than a costly inconvenience. It also exposes fire fighters and the public to the risk of accidents as equipment responds to the call.

The writer's point is as good one, but because the letter was not signed, its text does not appear in this week's issue. So please, if you write a letter to the editor, sign it. We cannot publish it if you don't.

And if you do write to the Echo, you can be assured that your letter will be published. We edit for grammar, but we do not censor, no matter how critical a letter may be.

It's time to train for HAVE walk

from Echo readers

To the Editor:

I wish to inform your readers that it is time to dust off the walking shoes and get in training for the H.A.V.E. Fourth Annual Walk for Water on June 6. We will be walking for wells in The Gambia, a tiny dry country in north west Africa.

This year's route will start and finish in Carnarvon and run past Beech, Maple and Twelve Mile Lakes and include some beautiful parts of the wilds of Blairhampton.

Walk forms are available at Halco, Remax offices, and Gambell's Antiques.

On a more local note....It's time for spring cleaning. The controversial spring above Maple Lake could stand a bit of tending. I filled a couple of garbage bags this weekend. Check out your local spring and offer it some care. Ninety-eight percent of our body is water. We could well afford to respect and honour its power sources.

Thank you,
Eric Lilius.

The story behind sibling rivalry

As OTHERS SEE IT

by Bob Giuliano

Why do I fight with my sisters? Don't ask me, ask them. They started it! My sisters and I fought a lot. My sons did, too. Everybody I know either fought with their brothers and sisters or they didn't talk at all. It happens. It is an unhappy happening, but it's there. Why? I honestly don't know, but there are some clues in an ancient Biblical story:

We read that Adam and Eve had two sons, Cain the first born and Abel, the second. Right away you know there is going to be trouble. Abel was a shepherd, a keeper of sheep. Cain chose farming, a tiller of the soil. Each person in every household is unique and personalities are different, and each must accept the loneliness of being who they are and doing what they can do best. That is a problem in itself, because we always watch out of the corner of our eye, what others are doing and often wonder if what we are doing won't do as good as our brother's. That is why we become such copy-cats and are full of uncertainty.

The day came when Cain and Abel took from what they had grown, made altars, and put on them their offering of thanksgiving to the Lord.

Abel made an offering from his sheepfold and Cain, the oldest and biggest brother, made an offering of fruits and vegetables. It was a nice day until God came on the scene. It seems God had not taken P.E.T.! Without hiding it, or lying about it, or without even attempting to be fair, God accepted Abel and his offering, but did not accept Cain and his!

Now, one wonders about God's wisdom at this point. Scripture does not tell us why God preferred one over the other. It simply states that He accepted one and not the other. He not only failed to reassure Cain that his was a suitable offering, it is also very clear that God accepted Abel as well as his gift and did not accept Cain, or his gift. You cannot separate gifts from persons, it seems. They are one and the same.

God might have at least admitted that he liked lamb chops but hated brussels sprouts! But no such explanation is given. He simply accepted one brother and his offering and not the other. It really looks like brothers get along pretty well until God gets mixed up in it.

All we can assume up to this point is that God is free, even from having to give a little positive reinforcement. "I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious and will show mercy on whom I will show mercy." (Exodus 33:19) When Moses asked for God's name to give to Israel so that they would know who had sent him, God answered, "My name is" - "I will be who I will be!" It seems God's freedom is very important to Him!

Well, right away we begin to feel bad for Cain. He is the oldest brother. He worked hard, he made an offering of what he was and of what he had. It doesn't seem fair that God should show such favoritism. Most of us also have an instant dislike for Abel, too. He's a suck; the one the teachers like the best, the one that always gets

FEIR PLAY

You can go back a long way before you will find a time when the economy was in any better shape than it is at the present time in the Province of Ontario. There is a chance that we may never see it this good again. Just look around Haliburton County for example, and especially in the village of Haliburton, and see the progress that is going in and the building industry has never seen better times. It's simply incredible the building and new businesses that have opened up or are still in the planning stages in Haliburton. Many of my friends who haven't been back to Haliburton for some time tell me that they just can't believe the building that's taking place in the village. Here we are coming into the busy summer months and employers seem to be crying for help and no one is showing up. It's hard to believe that anyone here is out of work when you consider the many jobs that are available. But let's face it! A large percentage of people today wouldn't take a job if they were offered one because some of them are willing to sit back and take it easy while living off unemployment insurance or welfare. Some say that wages are so low here that they are better off on unemployment insurance. This could be true and the economy would be even better here if wages in certain areas were higher. Yet some employers in the city of Toronto who are paying top wages can't find people to fill the positions as some of the prospective employees are willing to sit back and live off government giveaways. It seems to me that people who are willing to go out and do a day's work are being penalized so that we can take good care of those who won't work when jobs become available. I don't know how you feel about it, but I'm getting sick of paying taxes that are taken off my wages, to keep those who don't want to work. It seems to me that it's simply crazy to think that transients can walk into any village, town or city and collect welfare. This has been going on for years and is still the practice of the day. Many people feel that when a person walks in for welfare (if jobs are available) he or she should be handed a broom, lawn mower or what have you and told to go down and mow the public parks, sweep the streets or pick up litter around town. I think that if this was the case the most of these people would soon find themselves a job from those that are available.

If you are a Toronto Maple Leaf hockey fan you have to be happy with the results of the first play off round against the St. Louis Blues. I'm not what you would call a Leaf fan, but the team on the other hand just never seems to stop amazing me. Just when you think they are down and out and it's all over they seem to be able to dig down and come up with those big wins when they are needed. Now it's on to Detroit and who knows, this could be the year of the Maple Leafs.

Here, there and everywhere....Mr. and Mrs. Ron Elstone of Kemptonville, Ontario, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Elstone....Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hartin and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Kennedy have returned home after a week's vacation in the sunny south....The new Legion apartment building in Haliburton is a very popular spot. Hardly a day goes by without several people driving around that way to look the new building over....Mr. and Mrs. Jim Perrin returned home recently after spending the winter in the sunny south....Mr. and Mrs. Dan O'Neil of Brighton, Ontario, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck O'Neil at Haliburton for a few days last week....Mr. and Mrs. Erven Hoxie of Toronto were visitors to Haliburton for two days last week....Mr. and Mrs. Art Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Walker have returned home following a vacation down south....Friends of Mrs. Bella Bernstein will be sorry to hear that at present she is a patient in a Toronto hospital....Rennie Bonfield was in a Peterborough hospital last week for tests....Mr. and Mrs. Larry Donaldson arrived home a few weeks ago after spending the winter down south.

It seems like only yesterday that we were in the middle of May in 1986 and now here we are less than a month away from the Victoria holiday weekend 1987. Most of the business people throughout the County are very busy either putting up new buildings or additions onto their present businesses, or making changes to their present building. All of this, of course, is in preparation for the upcoming tourist season which is on its way. All indications point to a very busy summer and I wouldn't be the least bit surprised if we don't have a record breaking summer both from the financial end and from the total number of people who will be visiting our area. To tell you the truth the future both here and in the Province of Ontario looks good as the economy is in very good shape. If people have money to spend let's hope that they come back and spend it in the Highlands of Haliburton.

In an article appearing in a recent edition of the Toronto Star it was said that in the Kawartha Lakes area, water levels are high this year despite low precipitation, but reports indicate that even lakes in northern Haliburton are ice-free. There are some exceptions, including Balsam Lake, near Lindsay, but Bruce Kitchen, an engineer with the Trent Severn Canal Authority said this is normal.

Medical maladies to laugh about

The View From Here

Harvey Clarke

WHEN my wife and I forget things, we kid around about whoever did the forgetting having 'old-timer's disease.' Of course, we know that the real designation is 'Alzheimer's Disease.'

I was interested to read that this is actually one of many commonly mistaken terms people use when talking to their doctors about their complaints. Lord knows, medical terms can be pretty complicated when they're correct.

But there are so many people-versions, that a couple of doctors have actually turned out a guide to "Medical Words The Doctor May Not Know." Apparently medics can have trouble understanding their patients when they talk — the way we often do when doctors write — prescriptions, for instance.

Probably the best example in their guide was the patient in North Carolina who talked to her doctor about 'spinal-moaning-Jesus.' The authors say patients try to find their own way to understand unusual terms like 'spinal meningitis.'

A recent study done in U.S. hospitals shows that most people like their medicine with a dose of formality. When asked if they preferred a doctor that dressed like Marcus Welby, or casually clad like Howie Mandel on St. Elsewhere, they found that 65% opted for the white coated look.

The doctors seem to be less concerned with formality in naming new diseases. It may be the desire to be published, which seems to take on a lot of importance in teaching hospitals and other academic settings, but we do seem to have a lot of diseases with unusual names getting attention recently...

Some of them have been around for a while, and a Dr. E. R. Plunkett (who I think is now a senior official at the University Hospital in London, Ontario), compiled a list of them from the Yale Medical Library when he studied there.

He found references in august medical journals in Britain and the U.S. to such diseases as Mattress Makers' Fever, and Hatters' Shakes. The former comes from inhaling cotton dust, the latter from working with mercury before the dangers were known.

Up our way, they might have found examples of Humpers' Lump — a swelling on the necks of timber carriers — but it must be a few years since anyone reported Tight Girdle Syndrome, one symptom of which is shortness of breath.

In England they found Cricket Thigh, which I assume has some comparison to Tennis Elbow, but in a different part of the body, and Beer Drinker's Finger — which I wish they had explained...

Many of these unique ailments seem to be job related, such as Label-Lickers' Tongue, Mummy Unwrappers Lung, and Cellists' Chest. In fact, being a musician seems to be a much more dangerous job classification than you might think.

Recent music related conditions discussed in "The Lancet," a British medical journal, include: Violinist's Neck (from holding the instrument between the neck and chin), Percussionist's Palsy (also known as Cymbal Player's Shoulder), and Horn-player's Hernia.

According to the report's author, people who play trumpets and oboes, which are high-pressure instruments, can suffer near blackouts while playing a sustained high note. Not only that, but they are subject to hernias and piles from the strain. Ouch.

A Toronto doctor listed off a few recent examples of work-related illnesses, including one example from a fellow physician, who first noticed a pain reoccurring in his thumb.

It seems he was constantly copying medical journal articles on a photocopier, and the repetitive action of forcibly applying the original documents to the glass plate of the machine caused him to exert undue pressure on his thumb—a condition which he diagnosed himself as 'photocopier's phalanx.'

Another apparent professional hazard turned up in a 45-year-old male, who had pain and swelling in his knee, which would sometimes give out or 'lock up' on him. If his job was putting down rugs, it would have been labelled 'carpet-layer's knee.'

This fellow came from another profession, however, and the diagnosis was 'genueflectorium,' chronic stress on the knee caused by repetitive kneeling by — you guessed it — a priest!

As in other areas, it seems, modern times lead to modern diseases — or at least diagnoses. Only in the fast-food era would a teenager be told that their skin condition was related to their after-school cooking job — 'burger joint acne.'

And the 11-year-old boy, who couldn't keep his finger from locking in a bent 'trigger' position? They found out the problem was caused by playing video games daily for up to six hours. What did the doctors call it? Joystick digit...

And in this Spring Fever season, I think it is only fair to warn you: this column is on file with bosses, supervisors, school teachers, and the Workers' Compensation Board of Ontario.

Any occupational hazards listed above, or ideas they may give you as your own excuse for a day off, are used at your own risk!

Sin knows no family bonds

As OTHERS SEE IT

A's, and the favourite of all mothers. He gets the best jobs and never gets in trouble.

Whatever, God is clearly the one who started this trouble. He's the one being unfair, and He is the one who now causes Cain to hate his brother. Even our parents try to be more fair than that.

As a matter of fact, there is good evidence for the fact that it is the presence of parents that causes children to fight. Rudolf Dreiker (see Children the Challenge) has done some very interesting research into this matter. He posits that children fight for their parents' sake. That is, that for the most part when parents are far away, kids don't fight unless they are building up evidence for their report for the parents' return.

In interviewing a large family of kids who were driving their parents crazy with their constant fighting, Dreiker asked one boy what he would do if his mother ignored them fighting and just let them go at it. The boy was puzzled for a moment and Dreiker pressed him by saying, "Suppose your mom locked herself in the bathroom until the fight was over, what would you do?" The boy laughed and replied, "Bang on the door!"

It seems apparent that one reason we fight with brothers and sisters has to do more with our relationship with our parents than with each other — as it has to do with God for Cain and Abel.

I remember a couple of incidents as a father that speak to this. I got very tired of being a judge, a referee and an arbitrator of three boys' quarrels and announced one day that things were no longer going to be fair and equal in our house — from then on they could expect injustice and unequal treatment — since life was full of that it would be good training. Also, I was henceforth no longer going to intervene in their quarrels except for my own sake. I wanted some peace and didn't care any more who was unfairly treated. (I always gave great speeches when angry! I wasn't always so hot at carrying through, but the speeches were terrific.)

Anyway, that very day, oldest brother had, as often was the case, bugged middle brother to the point of rage. I was reading the paper on the back porch. Screaming around the house came the two brothers, middle brother with a ball bat! "Gulp!" goes speech-making father. "Dad, help!" screams frightened older brother. "You said you wouldn't referee," hollers red-faced middle brother, "and I'm going to knock his head off!" Up went the newspaper to hide from the scene, screams and swishing of bat through the air was all I could hear. I peeked over the top and big brother was cornered at the fence, the bat flailing wildly past his nose. I waited for the sound of crunching skull and splattering blood. "Swish, swish, scream, scream," then more arguing and yelling, more talk and accusations. Then they walked away still arguing and I uncrumpled the newspaper and relaxed. It was their fight and they hadn't killed each other, and it remained their problem, not mine. I wasn't always so good at staying out of it, but it proved a point: a fight that does not include parents can be settled a lot quicker by kids than one that does.

Well, back to Cain and Abel. Abel is whistling and bopping around, pleased about God's acceptance of him and his offering. Cain is burning. His face showed red with white blotches. His feelings were hurt bad and he was mad.

The Lord said, "Why are you so angry, Cain? If you do well, you are accepted. If you don't, you aren't. Those are facts of life."

Cain didn't answer, so God thought he'd better warn him to look out for what might happen. "Look, Cain, sin is crouching at your door like a wild beast, eager to take charge of your life. You must be master of it or it will master you!"

Note that God leaves the responsibility, the choice, to Cain. He does not accept the blame, and He is not about to interfere. Cain is a boy who has a choice, he can accept the facts of life and the truth about himself and learn from that, or he can blame God, justify himself and get even.

God warns him too, that this is no small matter. He is not playing with childish forces. Sin is not a bad thought or an angry moment, sin is like a living beast, a lion, a power outside of Cain that is eager, hungry to take charge of him. God warns him that Cain has the power in himself to be master of his life; he can choose, he can tame this beast if he wants to, but he'd better know that to decide to wear T-shirt, "I don't get mad, I get even" is no joke. He's playing with forces in this world that are powerful and the consequences of his choice will shape his life.

Cain ignored God's warning. God did not make Cain's problem and decision His own. God fell silent and left the decision to Cain.

The story moves quickly at this point. Cain goes to the cheerful giver Abel, invites him out to look at his rutabaga, and whacks him with his shovel. Abel falls dead, because Cain was mad at God for having favourites, mad at Abel for being successful, and mad at being who he was. He not only let the lion of sin in, he felt justified in doing it. Life, God, parents — none are fair! Life is not a garden party. From a human point of view it seems often unfair. God is free and stays free, no matter how we try to force Him to meet our needs and demands.

Now the full reality and consequence of jealousy, envy and competition between brothers and sisters has been revealed and a larger problem comes into play. When we have given way to the powers of rage and jealousy, we are out of our own control and under the control of another, but we are still held responsible for what we do. God does not hear excuses about "an unhappy childhood," or "psychological hang-ups". He still holds us responsible for what we do — whether our brother has tormented us or not!

So God comes back in tears and shock, "Cain, where's your brother?" Cain, still blaming God's unfairness for the whole thing says, "I don't know, am I his father?" The implication being that it was up to God to take care of his lucky favourite, not him. He was just his brother. He even lies straight up, "I don't know where he is."

The Lord God weeps, "What have you done? I hear the cry of your brother's blood!" Now God knows full well what has happened here. It is hardly a trial that takes place. God is crying over Abel's death, and over Cain's self-justifying anger, as well. Now God, who remains God even of the murderer, must relate to Cain over the cries of his brother, his victim. God always has to relate to us over the cries of our victims. He has to be God of America over the cries of Hiroshima, of the Germans over the cries of the Jews, of the Russians over the cries of the Ukrainians — He is still God and must be your God and mine over the cries of injustice of our victims, our brothers and sisters.

Now God's justice is swift. He doesn't mess around with speeches. The consequences for our giving in to the lies are immediate. "You are banished!"

Years ago, in a high school basketball tournament, I lost my temper and was expelled from the game in the final minutes to play. We were losing, of course. The record keeper wrote in the book by my name, "Banished." I had to leave the gym and go to the dressing room. I will never forget that word or what I felt sitting in the dressing room hearing the crowd as the game came to its conclusion. It was the feeling of being very much a stranger.

"You are banished," God said to Cain. "You will never feel at home with the earth again. You will always be a wanderer, a vagrant, a stranger to yourself, to others, and to Me."

Like a kid, Cain still feels no remorse, no sorrow for what he has done. He still denies that the whole thing was his fault. Immediately, in the presence of the cry of his victim and God's tears, he protests the punishment! He goes to pieces, berserk, and starts hollering about how

The honking flotilla arrives

Sunny Side Up

Martha Perkins

Last night the geese arrived. A honking, flapping flotilla of geese. Resting in the water as the current drifted them closer to shore, they arrived as a mass of floating shapes, the last of the evening's light picking up the flashes of white from their necks.

I had been waiting for their arrival since last spring, when hundreds of them came down from the sky and settled on the lake waters. It was amazing to see them land, one after the other, noisily announcing their presence to each other and to the fascinated people standing on the shore. Their numbers seemed endless and as they drifted together in the soft spring breeze, it seemed the lake had come alive with their bobbing shapes and flapping wings.

The image of their arrival and overnight stay was a lasting one, partly because of the strange music they made and partly because there were simply so many of them.

This year, it seemed they were the last to know of spring's early arrival in Haliburton and I was beginning to fear they might pass over the area without notice. Already I was missing the deer, of which I have not noticed a one, and I didn't want the spring to pass without seeing the Canada geese as well.

Then last night, as the water turned dark, deep blue of evening, their shapes were seen moving closer and closer to the shore. Opening a window to hear their greeting, their cacophony of honks was almost outdone by the musical sounds of the frogs in the marsh. The evening had come alive with the great performance taking place just outside the window.

It was either the very young and courageous or very old and wise geese which ventured onto the shore. Five or six of them lined the waters, one behind the other, without moving a feather—a sentinel sent out to stand guard for the others which decided to stay in the water. At one point, it seemed they were all going to go back out into the lake, but as soon as they got a few metres from shore, they began drifting back. Apparently one of the things they liked most about this lake is its surfing possibilities. After a hard day of flying, the gentle flow of the waters must have seemed soothing indeed.

By the time the blue of the sky started to match the blue of the water, it was difficult to pick out their individual shapes but you still knew they were there. The honking by now had subsided yet not altogether diminished, and as they found security in their resting place, it seems they surrendered themselves to sleep.

Unfortunately, this morning they were gone, though I have heard one had stayed and was begging for crumbs. Perhaps if she likes the hospitality she will encourage others to join her and the show will not have to end until this fall.

For it is truly a wonderful show the animals put on, whether they know people are watching or not. In the past week, I've seen a beaver swim silently along the shore line and a groundhog contemplate a closer investigation of the yard dangerously close to "civilization."

The best few minutes of animal watching were last Tuesday, when on my way home, I had to stop my car along the road as a moose decided whether she wanted to finish crossing or not. Of course I now know I should have turned off my lights and engine but as it was, I just calmly sat there, my car and my mind idling as we waited for the moose to continue her trek. I stayed a safe distance until she started moving once more, and then zoomed up the hill to catch a glimpse of her making her way through the bush. Curious as ever, she too had to stop and look back to see who was watching. I waved good night as we both knew it was time to be on our way home.

A busy month spent attending shows

CHAMBER NEWS

by Shawn Hagerman

This month has been a particularly busy month. The Chamber has been at the Sportsman Show, Cullen Barns, Travel and Leisure, and finally this week we will be attending the Eatons Show. The Marketing Committee will be putting forth a report, summarizing in their opinion the value of each of the shows, so that next years planning will be made easier.

There is a Board meeting this Thursday, and the number one topic on the agenda will be the discussion of our budget for the 1987-88 year. It will be a matter of keeping our existing programs moving along, while at the same moment reducing the Chamber deficit.

Any Chamber member whose dues are still outstanding, please send them along as soon as possible. If you believe as I sincerely do that the Chamber is the voice for the business community in Haliburton, and for stimulating economic activity within our region, then please support us

Dixie Lee practise for coming season

By Jim Milne

The Dixie Lee soccer team will hold their first practice outdoors at the High School on Sunday, April 26, at 4:00 p.m. There will be a second practice at the High School on Thursday, April 30 at 7:00 p.m. Practices will continue on Thursdays and Sundays at those times until Sunday league games begin on May 10 when Sunday practices cease. Everyone is welcome to the practices whether you intend to register or not.

There are now two oldtimers' teams in the League. The Huntsville team divided this year into senior and junior parts. Dixie Lee may soon have to make a similar decision because the tournament planned for May 22 in Toronto is actually for oldtimers. Our old friends, the West Rouge Blues, who are organizing the tournament have again agreed to the use of some younger players, but to be fair to them the team should recruit more older players.

Dixie Lee looks forward to the return of their college and university players. Andy Shapiera has been one of the best goalies in the league. Mike Hatkowski is one of the fastest forwards. Chris Car, Paul Milne and Shawn Chapman have also been very effective.

The team has also enjoyed a close association with the soccer program at the High School, and when the college players left last fall a number of

Haliburton Midgets come close, lose to Wheatley in game seven of finals

They pursued it all the way to game seven, but the Haliburton Midgets' dream of bringing home the all-Ontario championship died on the ice of the Wheatley arena last Sunday as the southern Ontario club skated to a 7-4 win to take the series.

Haliburton went to Wheatley leading the series three games to two and needing only one win to bring home the title, a challenge many fans thought they could meet with relative ease. But the Wheatley club had other ideas, and backed by their hometown supporters, they dominated in both games.

In game six on Saturday night it was Haliburton who got on the scoreboard first just a minute after the game began. Drew Mitchell got the goal, assisted by Tom McLeod and Ron Perrin.

Wheatley tied the match near the seven minute mark and the teams remained deadlocked for the rest of the first frame.

In the second period the home team took control and never relinquished it, despite Haliburton's best efforts.

Wheatley netted what proved to be the winning goal at 1:35 of the second period, and they added insurance markers at the 11 minute mark and with 1:35 left in the second.

Neither team could net a goal in the third period, giving Wheatley a 4-1 win and setting the stage for the seventh and deciding game on Easter Sunday.

Wheatley took the lead in the game with a goal at the mid point of the first period, and held Halibur-ton scoreless throughout the first frame.

In the second period Wheatley made it 2-0 at 2:16, but Haliburton got one back at 4:05. John Wells netted the goal with help from Ted Paish.

For the rest of the period Wheatley dominated on the scoreboard, racking up three more goals for a 5-1 lead.

In the third period Haliburton staged a rally, driving in two goals to narrow the margin to 5-3 with only six minutes elapsed.

Scoring were Drew Mitchell assisted by Scott Nesbitt, and Scott Russell assisted by Ron Perrin.

It was soon apparent that Wheatley was on its way to the title, however. Just 13 seconds after Russell's goal the home team netted their sixth and Haliburton was in an all but impossible hole. Then, with 6:05 left on the clock, Wheatley scored again to make it 7-3.

Haliburton did not give up, however, and managed one more goal with 3:46 left on the clock as John Vanderhorst put the puck past the Wheatley net-minder with help from Tom McLeod and Jeff Popple.

Final score was 7-4 in Wheatley's favour.

HHSS players make OFSSA

Five Haliburton high school badminton players have won the right to compete in the all-Ontario championships this weekend in Etobicoke. Barry Scully, Lesley Tashlin, Tran LaRue, Ian Cooper and Greg Foran qualified for the provincial finals by finishing in the top ranks at the Central Ontario championships last week.

Scully and Tashlin finished first in mixed doubles at the Kwartha qualifying event, and then came second at COSSA to advance to the finals. LaRue was second at Kwartha and second at COSSA in men's singles. Cooper and Foran finished second at the Kwartha competition and won second at COSSA for their berth in the provincial finals.

Other members of the senior badminton team who did well at Kwartha and COSSA were Derek Little and Susan Fleming, who were seventh at Kwartha and seventh at COSSA in mixed doubles, Tom McLeod and Gord Wood, who were fourth at both events in men's doubles, and Jamie Bruce, who was third at Kwartha and seventh at COSSA in men's singles.

The junior team also did exceptionally well in competition this year. At the Kwartha finals on April 9 at I.E. Weldon secondary school in Peterborough, Nicki Vachon and Laura Paton were second in doubles, Jodi McKnight was second in singles and Cindy Dunham and Philip Johnson were third in mixed doubles to qualify for COSSA, which was held last Thursday at Napanee. Overall, the HHSS junior team finished second out of 11 schools at the Kwartha competition.

In that event, Nicki Vachon and Laura Paton won the gold medal in ladies doubles, the best finish ever by Haliburton high school juniors in badminton competition.

Since there is no provincial final in the Junior ranks, the two girls will not have an opportunity to go for a provincial championship.

Local man makes the Hall of Fame

A former Olympic cyclist who now lives in Haliburton County will be inducted into the Oshawa Sports Hall of Fame on May 27. Bill Hamilton, who has had a residence in the Haliburton area since 1958, will be inducted into the city's sports hall of fame along with his cycling partner, Lance Pugh, the late Red Tilson (hockey), Ted O'Connor (hockey), Leo Haunsberger (judo), and Peter Poole (horseracing).

A former Ontario and Canadian cycling champion, Hamilton competed at the British Empire Games and the 1948 Olympics. He now lives on the Big Hawk Road near Halls Lake, along with his wife Shirley and 14 year old son Greg.

Hamilton owns Hamilton Office Equipment, and is also a dedicated hobby farmer.

On May 27 Hamilton's name will be added to the list of Oshawa sports notables who were inducted into the Hall of Fame five years ago. They include Bobby Orr, Don Jackson, Bob Attersley, Barbara Underhill, Harry Sinton, Alex Oakley, R.S. 'Sam' McLaughlin, and Billy Taylor.

Purse doubles for 1988 sled dog derby

The purse for the 1988 Minden Sled Dog Derby will be doubled according to an announcement from the organizing committee.

Val Loughheed, race co-ordinator, announced last week that the sponsoring company, Martin Pet Foods, has agreed to double the total prize for the 1988 race. The purse for the event will be $10,000.

The commitment came following discussions earlier this month in Elmira, where the head office of Martin Pet Foods is located. "Company officials were extremely pleased with this year's event and were quick to add their endorsement to another race," the co-ordinator said. "The organizing committee is extremely pleased with this endorsement by Martin Pet Foods and with indications that the company is looking at the Minden race as a long-term commitment."

In addition to increasing the purse from $5,000 to $10,000, the sponsor will contribute $5,000 for the administration and promotion of the race. "These additional funds will be used for advertising, so we can attract more people to Minden for this event," Loughheed said. "Sled dog racing is a sport that is starting to catch the

Eagle Lake women celebrate 50 years

by MARTHA PERKINS

Staff Reporter

IF YOU visited one of the monthly meetings of the Eagle Lake Women, you'd probably agree with Marie Wallace that the thing these women seem to do the most is laugh. Yet you should look beyond this gleeful exterior to realize that in the 50 year history of this women's organization, their laughing ways have done a lot of good for their community and for those farther from home.

In the minutes of the first meeting, secretary Grace Voycey writes, "the ladies present decided it would be both pleasant and profitable to form a Women's Society" and these words hold true today. It is pleasurable to belong to the Eagle Lake Women, but while you're having fun, you're also raising money to donate to worthy causes. For the member's it's one of the nicest ways to get together with your neighbours and do a little good for them at the same time.

This Saturday night, more than 90 old and new members are gathering at Sir Sam's Ski Chalet to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of what was first called the Eagle Lake Women's Society. Mrs. Voycey will be present, as will Olga Black and Rene Roberts, three of the original members.

Rene Roberts, or Mrs. Lew Roberts as she was called at those first meetings, was also present at the home of Marie Wallace last week, with the history of the society's first 20 years fresh in her mind. Five members, most of whom have been in the group for the past three decades at least, gathered to talk about the history of this vital community organization and what it has meant to them. To hear them talk about their activities is also to hear about the history of the village of Eagle Lake, for the two are closely entwined.

The early days

When settlers first began arriving in Eagle Lake in the latter half of the 1800s, they came primarily to farm. Homesteads were scattered around the hills, and for the longest time, there was no store nearby for them to visit.

Shortly after the men started lumbering in the area, the first Cooperage was built, sometime around 1928. It was closer to the village and responsible for the start of the steady trickle of residents making their way to Eagle Lake. This Cooperage was managed by Mr. Sprouts but burned down about 1930. The next Cooperage was built down by the lake and was to thrive until 1955, drawing new settlers down from the hills and into the area where the village is today.

It was in 1928 that Mrs. Roberts moved to Eagle Lake from Haliburton, living on a farm where there were always lots of visitors dropping by. In those days, visiting was an integral part of the social fabric of the community, and Mrs. Roberts can remember having to set the dinner table three times on Sundays as different groups of guests arrived for a meal.

"In those days you would go and be welcomed any time," she says of the days when you never had to let anyone know you were coming for a visit. "People just took you as you were and thought nothing about it."

As more people began arriving, the village quickly became "like a big family." However, after settling in, most of the women started to miss the social and church organizations they had belonged to in their former hometowns. It was during some of those social visits, such as one between Myrtle Pritchard and Bessie Weaver, that the idea of starting up a women's group in Eagle Lake was born.

"On Thursday March 25, 1937, a Ten Cent Tea was held at the home of Mrs. Lewis Pritchard and about 20 ladies attended," the first minutes read. "The proceeds from the Tea were used to kalsmine the inside of the building now used for Church services."

That building was the cookery of the Cooperage and the women wanted to dress up their weekly place of worship. More than that, they wanted a proper church for their new community and one of the primary goals of their new Society was to raise the money to build one.

First meeting

On April 21, 1937, the Eagle Lake Women's Society met for the first time formally at the home of Mrs. William Hathaway, who was to become the president. Mrs. Lila Curry was elected as the vice-president, with Mrs. Grace Voycey filling the role of secretary and Mrs. Della Curry as treasurer. Approximately 20 women altogether enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Hathaway as they discussed their hopes and aspirations for the society.

For five decades, its members have shared smiles while helping others

"One may do a great deal of good in the world if he cares not who gets credit for it," was their chosen motto, one which is not used formally by the group today but is still most definitely practiced.

In the days when the society only charged a dime for tea, sandwiches and cookies, it is easy to imagine they must have sold a lot of sandwiches to raise enough money to build their church. Different women would agree to be hostess of the teas, and they were open to everyone in the community, not just the members of the society.

Other fundraising ideas which were initiated in 1937 are still being used today. In 1987, $1 is charged for the card parties but in those days, a handful of pennies could buy you a seat at one of the six or seven card tables set up in someone's living room—and some refreshments during the course of the games as well. Besides the fact the men of the village were present at each meeting in name only (all the women were referred to as Mrs. "John Smith" not Mrs. "Mary Smith") the card parties were also popular among the men who would join their wives after a long day of work at the Cooperage.

Another popular event with local families was the picnic at Twelve Mile Lake. Even though most families had cars, they were not used very often and a trip to a different lake was quite an outing.

The first year was also the time to begin another tradition—the raffling of quilts. During the meeting last week at Mrs. Wallace's, she and present president Lillian Henry were adding the finishing touches to the border of a quilt they plan to raffle as a fundraiser for the Haliburton Hospital Expansion Fund. They are having 1,000 tickets printed, but in 1937, their goal was much more modest and they sold a quilt for $3.

As the women's society was kept busy raising funds to furnish the church, the men were spending their evenings and weekends building it. The Eagle Lake Community Church got its name not only because it is non-denominational, but also because it was, and is still today, a community effort. It was the will of the community to have their own place to worship and gather which saw the church built in the first place, and it is that will which has kept it thriving since then.

July 17, 1938 was a proud day for the people of Eagle Lake. Reverend Bee stood at the front of the new church and told how it would be "the inspiration and stabilizing force for the community." The seats and cushions the parishioners sat on had been donated by the Women's Society, as had the hymn books, blinds and organ. (It had belonged to Mrs. Roberts' aunt which she bought in 1907 for $15.)

Throughout the years, the Women's Society would continue to donate money and equipment to the church, and many of the improvements made to the church have been aided by them as well.

The Women's Society didn't slow down at all after the church was built; in fact, the momentum it created would keep on until the 1950's when the Cooperage shut down and families began to leave the area. Its popularity would resume once the community re-organized itself along new lines, evident by the fact that at the last meeting, 25 women were present.

Dressing up was always a fun thing to do, and sometimes the activities allowed everyone to dress up—but not in their Sunday clothes.

The fare at the "Hard Times Party" was as its name implies—cheap. Mrs. Hathaway was adamant that if you didn't dress up in costume, you couldn't have one of the weiners cooking in the big pot or cobs of corn when they were in season.

This week's Pic of the Past shows the costume of the day back in 1953, when the society held a fun fashion show, delighting both themselves and the audience which filled the school. They got to dress up when they put on plays at the school as well.

Generally, all the social activities going on in Eagle Lake were the responsibility of the Women's Society, for they were the ones organizing all of the get-togethers everyone enjoyed so much. But while they were having fun, they were also raising money for their various projects. The competition between small groups of the society to see who could save the most pennies from a certain year was indicative of their belief "If you take care of the pennies, the dollars will take care of themselves." All their projects may have only cost a few pennies to their participants, but those pennies all added up and were not lost in the shuffle. "Slow and steady wins the race" is another adage which comes to mind when thinking of the Women's Society's fundraising techniques.

The war years

During the war years, many men from the Eagle Lake area joined the forces and the women now turned their sights towards making sure their comfort was maintained in less-than-perfect conditions.

The women began knitting socks and mitts for the men, wrapping up parcels of goods they thought might be welcome. When Mrs. Lila Austin came to their meeting to talk about the efforts of the Red Cross volunteers, they joined efforts and worked consistently throughout the war to provide the men with whatever they could.

Two of the Eagle Lake men never did come home after the war. Lyle Horsley and Jimmy Nicholls were both killed during World War Two and to honour their memories, the Women's Society donated two memorial plates with their names inscribed.

Mrs. Austin was just one of the interesting speakers the women invited to talk at their meetings. Other speakers over the years included Mrs. Carroll and Jamieson, Miss Howard, who worked with Dr. Jamieson, Miss Minott, the nurse who visited the school, Mrs. Lorimer, the minister's wife, and Mrs. Pauline Otto.

While many donations were made to local organizations and people in need, the women also set their sights further afield. When Hurricane Hazel hit southern Ontario, they sent money to families for flood relief. There were branches all over the place in Eagle Lake, and if the winds were bad that far away, the women knew things must be worse closer to the Humber River. Some organizations, such as the March of Dimes or the Cancer Fund, began receiving money decades ago and continue to receive contributions now.

From here, Margaret Besse tells the history of the society, and by going back through the old minutes, she has captured the feeling of many of those earlier meetings.

It was during her time that the fee at the monthly meetings was raised from 10 cents to a quarter. For that amount, the person always received dessert and coffee provided by the hostess, a job which was shared among the different members.

In December of 1957, the women answered their name during roll card with a household hint. (At other meetings they might have to answer with a recipe or Bible reading, but today, all the women do is acknowledge their presence with a simple "here" when their names are called.) In the general business section of the meeting, it was reported that Simpsons and Eatons would continue to donate material. The Red Cross had asked the women to volunteer as sewers and since many women were well-practised at the art, they quickly donated their time to help.

That January, Public Health Nurse Miss Miller was the guest speaker and favourite recipes sold for 10 cents. As the months proceeded, Marie Wallace received a gift for newborn son Grant, they held bake sales, card parties and raffles, $25 was given to the Sunday School to be spent on candy for all the local children at the Christmas Party, a cleaning bee was held after the church was painted, a quilt sold for $20 and a turkey draw was held. One ill-fated idea was to spend $20.85 on cold liver oil pills to give to the children who might not be getting all their vitamins. The problem was, some of the children didn't like them and they would throw them out when no one was looking.

In early 1959, the society started up an Explorers group for the local girls and spent $5 on the opening ceremonies. A boys' ball team was also given the initial boost. Mrs. Roberts talked about a recent trip and the morning after Marie Wallace held the October monthly meeting, she gave birth to a baby girl. A card party garnered $11.50 and it was decided to buy a pulpit chair.

On Friday February 26, 1960, 42 friends gathered to honour Rev. John Smith on his recent engagement to Velma Ghent. The young couple received an electric coffee maker and cream and sugar set from the women, while the Sunday School gave them another present. The evening included a succession of games which were enjoyed by all.

The Crippled Civilians organization received a donation of used clothing in 1961 and a baby quilt was made for the Smiths. A rash of unexplained fires left five different families homeless and a quilt was made for each one. No one knew what caused the fires and whether the causes were natural ones.

In 1962, there was bowling night at Medley's (now Camarvon Lanes) and it was decided Mrs. Frank Simms of Guilford should receive $5 for each of the quilts she made instead of $3. The May hat contest was won by Marie Wallace and Margaret Besse, with a fine production of their own making.

The next year, money went toward the new skating rink and a table and four chairs were purchased for the church basement. The women kept busy making foam "turtle" soap covers. A Book of Remembrance was placed in the church in memory of Mrs. Clara Madill, and since then, the name of every member of the Eagle Lake community who has died is recorded in the book.

The proceeds from the bowling banquet in 1964, $36.38, were given to the local association for the Mentally Retarded, a group still receiving help from the society. Later, their involvement with the association would expand when they started up a Tuesday lunch program, the purpose of which was "to involve people in a co operative way to prepare meals for a larger group of peers" and provide a "certain amount of personal satisfaction in the accomplishment of cooking a meal." The volunteer from Eagle Lake would help prepare and supervise the meal, although it was understood "we do not intend to have perfect meals and the quality of the meal should not reflect on the volunteer lady. It is to be regarded as a social learning experience for all involved." The guidelines for the program were written up by Miriam Lewis and Robert McLagan.

In May, a donation of $100 was made to the church and the price of quilts was raised to $20-$25 for a full spread. In December, they made a $23.20 payment towards the new furnace for the church and gave $25 to the Haliburton Arena Fund.

By this time, plans for a home for the county's senior citizens were underway and the women received a letter in 1965 from the administrators of Hyland Crest asking for any help they were willing to give.

The women also decided to treat themselves for a Chinese dinner at Gelert Gardens and 10 members

Though there have been many changes over its 50 years, belonging to the Eagle Lake Women is still 'both profitable and pleasant.'

and one visitor, Muriel Allport, rang up a total bill of $20.

The cost of fire insurance for the church went up to $6,000 from $3,000 the following year and the society helped pay the difference, as well as picking up the $69 balance on the money needed for the new furnace. A candle lighting ceremony raised $181.41.

During the Centennial year, the women bought two of Karl Hanke's paintings to hang on the wall of Hyland Crest. After one meeting, when the general business was completed, the women received an informative lecture on "How to get out of a stuck zipper." Discussion began on the proposed new doors for the church, a discussion which was to last for several months. Letters were received from the Congo, acknowledging receipt of clothes and Sunday School papers.

A new name

From this point, Peggy Fawns takes over the discussion of the Women's Society, which would soon just be referred to as Eagle Lake Women. Membership varied through the years but in 1969, when Mrs. Fawns takes over and in 1977, there were 24 members.

As always, the women kept making their quilts, sent cards to people and presented candy to the children at Christmas (the women could now afford to buy a Santa Claus suit of their own.) Adults were not forgotten at Christmas either, when baskets of fruit and flowers were sent to the shut-ins.

In 1968, the women had began preparing and serving the teas at Hyland Crest twice a year, and another tea which became immensely popular was the one held during the Guild Summer Exhibition and Sale. The women brought their own card tables, fine china, lace table clothes and served tea and sandwiches at tables which all sported fresh flowers.

It was decided that the Christmas Bazaars would not be changed to garage sales in the summer and a few Christmas parties were catered to.

Then in May, 1972, the Board of Education decided to close the Eagle Lake School. At one point, there were 110 children in the community, but ever since the Coopersage closed down and fewer young families were moving into the area, the enrollment had been dwindling.

Names and addresses of former students were gathered for a big reunion and of course, the day wouldn't be complete without honouring Margaret Sisson, the principal of the school who had taught there for 26 years. She was given the old school bell as a keepsake of her many years of teaching the children of Eagle Lake.

On Easter Sunday, 1974, a stitchery the women had worked on was hung on the walls of the church and which this Easter, was replaced by another, newer stitchery. The year 1974 also marked the 100th anniversary of the County of Haliburton and on the walls of the council chamber, there still hangs today the stitchery the women donated to the county.

The changing social climate meant the society had to change too. A few years earlier, the meetings were changed from luncheons to evening gatherings because many of the women were now starting to work too. But as the members grew older, they preferred to stay at home at night and in 1975, the meeting time was switched back to afternoon meetings. Because of the new focus on diets, some women have suggested that desserts should no longer be served but that has yet to be decided. Now the women take turns hosting the meetings and serving the refreshments on a yearly schedule.

One lucky break for the women as far as fundraising was concerned happened when a couple who owned a china wholesale business bought a cottage on the lake. They would sell discontinued patterns and seconds to the women at a low price, and in turn the society would hold china sales. Unfortunately, the couple moved away and the practice was discontinued.

Little has changed since Mrs. Fawns' narrative ends in 1977. Those nickels and dimes still mean a lot in their fundraising efforts but this year they are setting their goal higher for the quilt raffle, hoping that once people hear the proceeds are going to the hospital expansion fund, they will be more willing to purchase a ticket. The women estimate that in an average year, they will make between $1,000 and $1,500 in donations.

Instead of sponsoring children overseas, the women now use the money to send needy children to various camps and the list of charitable organizations they donate funds to has also expanded. Each member is encouraged to get involved with another group, and then report back to the Eagle Lake Women what other projects are being considered.

When asked why they have remained active with the Eagle Lake Women over all of these years, many of the women agree with the minutes of the first meeting which read "the ladies present decided it would be both pleasant and profitable to form a Women's Society."

"I'm just proud I've been a member for all these years," says Mrs. Roberts. In 1958, she had to write a speech celebrating the 21st anniversary of the Society, and at the meeting almost 30 years later, she quotes from the speech some of the thoughts she and her fellow members could be sharing: "Pride for the things we've accomplished, happy thoughts for the good times we've enjoyed together, memories of the members who played an important role in our organization but no longer live in our community and a thought of sadness in the memory of former members who have passed on."

Even though these words were written for a different celebration, they will still be applicable Saturday night when past and present members of the Eagle Lake Women's Society gather to celebrate 50 years of profit and pleasantries.

New store caters to the those 'finishing touches'

by MARTHA PERKINS
Staff Reporter

When decorating a new home, or remodelling an old one, it's always been hard for people in Haliburton to find those finishing touches which set everything off the way you want them. Connie Robinson knew this from her own experiences, and also because of the stories she heard from her husband, building contractor John Robinson. So when she thought about opening a business of her own, the opportunity presented itself to help her fellow home decorators.

The Finishing Touch is Haliburton's latest addition of new stores, all designed to help shoppers stay in Haliburton to shop. With its wide range of merchandise to chose from and catalogues offering easy fingertip shopping, The Finishing Touch provides people with those perfect items to complement their home, without having to stray far from home.

"People are very proud of the fact they can now get these things here," says Robinson. While cottagers may drop by looking for something a little less formal, many locals want the fancier, trendier items to display in their home. "They want the variety and the different touches."

At The Finishing Touch, they can find a little of everything—even the kitchen sink.

The store, which is located below the new Radio Shack store in the Halco Plaza, is in part set up like a home would be. When you enter, there's a large display of lights hanging from the ceiling or sitting on brass stands. Various blinds hang from the window and to your left hang multi-coloured shower curtains with matching plastic covers for the curtain rod.

Modern designs

The bathroom off to the side of the store is complete with a modern-design gray sink and toilet, warm lighting and a jacuzzi surrounded by mirrors. No other store in town has a jacuzzi full of water on display and at the turn of a switch, Robinson can show her customers the benefits of the invigorating jet streams of water. The door to the bathroom was made by one of the men working at Beachli Construction 1984, the Robinsons' construction business.

Outside the bathroom and along the far wall is a display of bathroom accessories and as you move farther along you come to the fireplace inserts and stoves.

If you want to sit down and rest as you take it all in, Robinson has a three-piece wicker set including a padded love seat with two matching chairs.

"I think wicker adds a nice touch," she explains of her selection. "It's classy looking."

On the walls are a variety of different styles of mirrors to complement either the wicker furniture or a more formal setting. There are also prints which are available for sale at Christopher Bishop's store next to the Finishing Touch, The Nook. An art gallery and seafood store, the store's entrance will be through Robinson's store. (Through a different entrance is the Robinsons' construction business office and supply room.)

Further to the back of the store is the kitchen display with its many types of cupboards and fixtures.

'Everyone likes nice things around them,' says Connie Robinson, owner of The Finishing Touch.

Robinson has given it a nice homey-atmosphere with its bright cookie jars and containers and the coffee will be always kept warm. One added feature to this department is the kitchen cupboards built by Beachli Construction 1984. Not only do you find lots of storage space when you first open the cupboards, but when you swing open the first set of shelves you find another pantry in behind. As Sheila Whiting, an employee of The Finishing Touch, points out, this would be perfect in the kitchen of a senior citizen who is unable to reach into high cupboards.

It is with these little touches too that Robinson and her husband are able to help each other with their own businesses. When John Robinson is asked to build a house, he is often asked for decorating suggestions and now he can point them to The Finishing Touch. On the other hand, Connie is able to display some of the company's handiwork and abilities. By working together yet at separate businesses, the Robinsons feel they can help each other make the most of their talents.

"I wanted to have more input into my husband's business and this way, I feel I am contributing as well," she explains. Before opening the store, she had worked with the construction business but feels this way she will better be able to combine her talents with her husband's. The men of the company, she adds, have been more than helpful both in building the store and keeping it stocked.

While the store is already filled with many different types of merchandise, Robinson plans to expand and change her lines once she finds out what people are looking for. Initially the only brass ware she planned to have was candlesticks, but once she saw what was available, she couldn't resist buying more.

The same can be said about all areas of the store. "I wanted a wee little store and I went wild," she says with a laugh. Her own personal tastes quickly became incorporated with the store's own look, and by doing it this way—buying the things she would like to see in her own home—she feels her job will be made easier and more pleasant.

"Everyone likes nice things around them," she says, and already she feels her store is more of a second home rather than a workplace. This is important not only for her when she is at work, but also for the people who come into the store.

"I want people to come in, have a coffee, relax, and take their time because I think it takes time to pick out those finishing touches," she says. On her part, "I'm in my element when I'm out dealing with people."

It is because she likes meeting with people that Robinson believes this new store is going to be as beneficial for her as it will be for the people looking for something to dress up their home. A dream store for her personally, she hopes others will also appreciate the advice and merchandise she can now provide.

Guild members show year's handicrafts

GUILD NOTES

by Virginia Muenzel

I was at the Rails' End Gallery Tuesday while the art and craft work was coming in for A Time For All Things. You must go to the show. Everyone's imagination has been working well. From hooked rugs to original sweaters to water colours to weaving and writing, this is truly a Guild show.

Raffle tickets are still being sold for the white woven shawl by Marion Langdon. There are also some tickets left for the Four Seasons Fashion Show at Wig-a-Mog Inn on May 3rd. Remember, because there is to be a brunch at 12:30, tickets will not be sold at the door. Also, those entering garments must take them to the Gallery on April 27 or 28 between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. to be fitted to models.

In conjunction with the fashion show, at the Gallery, Garments By Design will be showing some works by our old friends of many summers, Marilyn Leonard, Bill Fitches, Sandra Orr, Paula Letki along with Joyce Woodward, Lyette Beaulac, Ellen Good and Ellen Adams. The garments of these artists will be modeled at the Four Seasons Fashion show. Also in this exhibit will be fashion drawings by our own Mary Hastings, and Bill Fitches. These are all exciting people with unique styles.

From May 9 to 30 in the Waiting Room, Surfacing-Variation On a Theme will be showing. This is the fourth biennial juried exhibition organized by Surfacing Textile Dyers and Printers Association of Ontario. The show presents dyeing, silkscreening, drawing, painting, printing, quilting, stitching, weaving, felting and lacing incorporated into and onto surfaces of fabric and combined with many more techniques into pieces of outstanding quality, colour and individuality. Fibre art lovers and the general public have the opportunity to view the tremendous scope and direction of the surface design field.

All the season ticket supporters of the current concert series will be happy to note that there will be a free concert presented to you on May 25. Ollie Case, an organist and keyboardist will be performing. As usual, the concert committee has come up with some excellent performances. Anyone else wanting to see this final concert may do so by purchasing a set of season tickets for next year.

Finally, don't forget that Volunteer's Night is coming up at Birch Point Lodge on May 23. Tickets are now available at the Gallery for $13 each. Refreshments will be at 7:00 p.m. and dinner at 7:30. David Anderson and The Whole Loaf Theater will entertain us.

This painting by Mary Wallace is just one of the works presently on display at the Rails' End Gallery. A Time for All Things is the annual show for participating Guild members to display their efforts of the past year.

Congratulations to Ian Cooper on winning with Greg Foran, the silver medal in the men's doubles at COSSA tournament on April 15. He and Greg will represent Haliburton High at the all-Ontario Badminton Tournament this weekend in Toronto.

There was a dance at the Centre on Saturday to help with the new wing at the hospital. The funds need efforts like this to raise the necessary funds. The Centre Committee is to be commended for the effort.

The Anglican Church had a special guest recently in the person of the Rt. Rev. Terry Finlay. Bishop Finlay dedicated new lights in St. Andrew's and the door in memory or honour of various faithful members of the congregation.

Ken and Shirley Rapson are in Barbados on a three week holiday.

Lakehaven is under new management. It was formerly owned by Kanter and known as Green Lake Resort. Best wishes to Barbara and Peter.

There have been many visitors and special family events; alas, many bereavements in the community since I last wrote the column. I'll catch you up on the events as best I can in the coming weeks.

Moose's trip delights neighbours

DORSET NEWS

by Phyllis Briscoe

Can we depend on this spring weather to indicate better things to come? We hope so and have faith that we are in for a progression of lovely weather. The crocus blooms and acilla make a pretty picture in their blues and yellows.

The Canada Geese have been seen wending their way north and a few have stopped to visit on their way. Speaking of visitors, the wild creatures have been very friendly. A week ago a large buck deer walked in my driveway one evening, wandered back out onto the road and strolled past the neighbors houses and then into the bush. Not to be outdone, a couple of evenings ago a large moose swam from somewhere, broke some rotten ice at the shore and came out on my neighbors driveway, which is near my house, rambling along back of the house next door, out through the back yards beyond and crossed the road and disappeared into the woods. Who needs TV entertainment when capers like that go on all the time.

We send congratulations to Miss Jacquie Berry on winning the Provincial Public Speaking contest in Barrie, having won the local contest at Huntsville High School, where she is a Grade 10 student. Jacquie, daughter of Wayne and Margaret Berry of Dorset, will be going on to try the national contest at Gatineau, Quebec. We are always proud of our local talent.

A very happy birthday wish is sent to Todd Brooks whose birthday party day was April 16.

H.H. Take fresh mushrooms out of their plastic wrapper and store in a brown paper bag. They will stay fresh much longer.

Area population grows

The number of people living in Haliburton County increased by 5.3 percent in the five years between 1981 and 1986, results of the 1986 census show. The growth rate, while relatively modest, was more than one percentage point higher than the national average of 4.2 percent.

In 1981 there were 11,361 permanent residents of Haliburton County. In 1986, the number had grown to 11,961 people, in 4,672 private dwellings.

The information was gathered on census day last June 3. On that day Canada's population was 25,354,064, more than one million greater than the 1981 population of 24,343,181. Growth in the federal riding of Victoria/Haliburton has been even more substantial, with 9.3 percent more people in 1986 than in 1981. The riding's total population was 97,558 on census day, 1986.

The rate of population growth in Ontario as a whole was 5.7 percent between 1981 and 1986. The province's total population was 9,133,515 on census day, 1986.

Despite the increase in numbers of people, the rate of growth for the country as a whole continues to decline, which is attributed to falling birth rates and a drop in the number of immigrants allowed into the country.

COMMUNITY NEWS

Two Easter services enjoyed on weekend

CHURCH NOTES

by June Devolin

Over the Easter weekend I had the opportunity to worship at two community services.

On Good Friday morning at 9 a.m. I attended the Community Service at the Gooderham Community Hall. The response to this first joint service was encouraging. The auditorium was filled.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Maurice Bradley from the Tory Hill United Church Pastoral Charge and the Rev. Roger Sauve, pastor at Gooderham Pentecostal Church.

The Wilberforce Choir presented two Easter hymns. Glen Madill, member of the local council, extended greetings and applauded the decision to donate the morning offering to the Haliburton Hospital Expansion Fund.

Roger Sauve also served as pianist for a number of favourite hymns.

Pastors Sauve and Bradley gave inspiring messages on "Getchsemane" and "The Cross", respectively.

On Sunday morning the annual Easter Sunrise Service was held at 7 a.m. at Skyline Park, Haliburton. This service was organized and conducted by the Haliburton Ministerial Association.

A good crowd gathered on this beautiful morning to acknowledge that Christ is risen.

Before most people in the village had awakened, Easter songs were floating down from the skyline, led by a brass band consisting of Glen Carter, Ann Hemphill, John Stouffer and Rick Vaughan.

Holy Communion was shared as we stood quietly on the hilltop.

I have attended many Sunrise Services before but this one seemed most special to me. The glorious spring weather and the breath-taking beauty of the village and countryside had added to our Easter celebration.

Hot pancakes and sausage were the order of the day Saturday at the Wilberforce 11th Annual Maple Syrup Festival at the Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre. After filling up, visitors could browse along bazaar tables.

Stanhope township council briefs...

At its April meeting, Stanhope Township's council considered the following matters:

Council approved in principle the proposed dredging and the construction of a retaining wall in front of property owned by Earnest Wells conditional upon the work being done in accordance with the Ministry of Natural Resources specifications.

Council approved severance application submitted by Earl and Elizabeth Barry.

The Highway 35 Association was granted permission to construct a tent on Municipal Property located at part lot 15 concession 4, Stanhope Township for its Annual Cornfest, subject to any and all uses of the tent being approved by the appropriate authorities and also subject to a 'Hold harmless' agreement between Highway 35 Association and the Township of Stanhope.

Council authorized a donation of $100 to the Minden Agricultural Society to financially aid in the annual County Fair to be held in Minden.

The Chief and Deputy

Chief of the Fire Department were authorized to attend the Annual Fire Chiefs Convention to be held May 3 - 7, 1987, at Niagara Falls, Ontario. The township will absorb all reasonable out-of-pocket expenses in this regard.

Council supported a resolution passed by the Township of Horton requesting the provincial government to consider the providing of capital funding assistance to small municipalities for the purchase of motorized fire-fighting equipment.

Council recommended to the Council of Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden, the fire agreement rates presently in effect between Stanhope and Minden be increased as follows: stand-by rate, $1.00 per annum to $2,000 per annum, first hour rate $200 per hour to $250 per hour, each hour thereafter $100 to $125 per hour, effective July 1, 1987.

The next regular meeting of council will be held Wednesday May 13, 1987, at 8:30 a.m. in the municipal council chambers, North Shore Road.

New programs for May

COUNTY LIBRARY

by Joel Levis

As part of the second stage of library programmes for 1987, the Haliburton County Public Library announces the following programmes for the month of May.

On Wednesday May 6, 1987, April and Susan, a hand-clapping and foot-stomping exercise of songs, stories for children of all ages, will be presented. The programme, which is funded by the Ministry of Citizenship and Culture, is being presented at the Victoria Street School, Haliburton, at 1:30 p.m. and at the Minden Branch of the Haliburton County Public Library in Minden at 10:00 a.m.

On Saturday May 9, 1987, Tanglefoot presents Igg's Pigs, a show for all ages with pigs and pussy cats, sailing ships, trips to the moon...and a skunk! The show is scheduled for the Dorset Branch of the Haliburton County Public Library in Dorset at 10:00 a.m., the Glamorgan Branch of the Haliburton County Public Library (Community Centre, Gooderham) at 3:00 p.m. and a final show at 7:00 p.m. Monmouth Branch of the Haliburton County Public Library, Community Centre, Wilberforce. Children in pajamas are welcome! But remember the skunk!

Arena Manager Brian Sisson reported to Council regarding evaluation studies which he recommends to be carried out this year on the Community Centre building, as well as on grant funding available to reduce the municipality's cost regarding both studies and required works. Council gave Sisson permission to obtain quotations for a structured evaluation as soon as possible.

Sisson was also authorized to obtain invitation quotations for an energy audit and energy conservation retrofit feasibility study of the Minden Community Centre building.

Temptations must be removed from curious pets

PET CORNER

by Helen Robertson

"Curiosity has killed the cat, the dog, and many a trusting creature; only man can intervene and remove the temptations." (Helen Robertson).

Most of us who own pets, do so because of the undeniable bond that forms between humans and animals. We give them affection and they return it, all in their individual ways. We should remember though, that pets, like children, need guidance, and they cannot, like children, always distinguish what is and what isn't potentially hazardous to their health.

There are indoor and outdoor precautions to take care of if unexpected dangers are to be avoided. We've all heard the saying "curiosity killed the cat", well sometimes we're all too quick to put the blame on an animal when in fact we could have helped prevent an accident. Any well trained cat owner knows that if his cat is in the mood to hide, that he'll find the least accessible place of all to do so. Once I searched my house from top to bottom trying to locate one of my most mischievous cats. I thought there was absolutely no other place she could possibly be when I heard an unidentifiable noise coming from my cabinet stereo. It was not music. There was a very small cut out opening in the back of it that she had somehow forced herself into, and remained, no doubt feeling victorious as I called her name and tore everything apart.

Then there was the time when my other cat crawled into an opening that I was unaware of behind the bathtub. In this case I soon realized where she was. Her "frightened meow sound" gave her away. There was a happy ending when she finally realized how to get back out from under the floor. She just followed her nose to the food I had placed at the entrance of the hole. If food is the reward, this cat would gather grapes from thorns with no hesitation!

Although these experiences are recalled with amusement, they could have had more serious consequences. Make sure electrical cords are tucked out of reach and reprimand Rover or Fluffy if they are caught in the act of chewing them. Burning of the mouth can result with accompanying shock and possible cardiac arrest. Make sure the current is switched off when you go to help, then reach your veterinarian right away. Block off any holes in your house that may lead to dangerous or confusing situations for your pet, and always glance in your refrigerator, oven, or any drawer or closet before you close it.

Cats can sometimes die from the complications of swallowing yarn, string, or rubber bands. These objects can become entangled in the intestines. Cats don't always mean to swallow them, but their barbed tongues make it difficult to spit them out.

A needle attached to the end of a piece of thread can become stuck in the throat or in the gut. If you see a thread passing from the rear-end of your cat, don't pull it. There may be a needle attached. Obtain veterinary assistance. These situations can be fatal. Bones can also become stuck in a dog or a cat's throat, or become lodged in other organs, causing great distress, damage, and possible surgery for your pet.

It's better for your dog to chew on a rawhide bone, than to chew inedible objects such as newspapers and bags that could be swallowed, or bones that could splinter. As with children, plastic bags left lying around can cause suffocation.

Any extensive burn to an animal will cause shock. Early treatment for this is necessary (keep the animal warm and get him to a Vet). Scalds from hot water or cooking are common in cats, but their desire for warmth sometimes causes dry burns from fires and stoves. Dousing the damaged tissue with cold water is secondary treatment.

Many poisonous substances are found in and around the home. Toxic houseplants, antifreeze, insecticides, drugs, and caustic cleaners should be kept out of reach of pets as well as children. Unfortunately pets have befallen the same fate as slugs. If you must use a chemical such as for your garden, follow directions carefully and store unused portions under lock and key. There may be an equally effective means of solving your problem without chemicals e.g. Pest or Guest-A Guide to Alternative Pest Control. ($6 available from 2150 Maple St., Vancouver, B.C. V6J 3T3). If you know or suspect a poisoning has occurred have the label handy if possible and visit or call your vet immediately. The poison control centre in Toronto is 416-598-5900 and is open all the time. Your vet will give you an emergency number to call on a recording if it is after hours.

A cat's or dog's habit of licking any contamination from its paws and hair, puts it in danger. Some poisons are absorbed through the skin. Cats have a poor ability to excrete poisons, so that even relatively harmless substances like aspirin are toxic to the feline. If a poisoned rodent is eaten, a cat's life is threatened. If paint or tar is present on your pet, butter or vegetable oil will soften it for washing.

One product that needs particular attention, because of its extreme toxic nature, is antifreeze. (or Ethylene Glycol). Substances such as windshield wiper fluid and products used to winterize your cottage plumbing system contain this virulent toxin. It takes very little to cause agonizing death for a pet or child. The main attraction is its sweet taste. For the home mechanic, it is essential to store products containing ethylene glycol safely away.

When radiator fluid is changed, ensure that it goes into a container, and is disposed of safely, instead of letting it run on the ground. Cottage owners may add this product to toilets to prevent freezing in the fall and winter. Remember this when you return to your cottage this spring. (Or during winter visits). Your dog may be thirsty after a long drive and here is an opportunity for him to have an instant sweet, but lethal drink. Immediate treatment from a Vet is vital but it usually comes too late.

Treatment for shock for any accident can be a very important life sustaining measure for an animal, but never delay reaching a Vet while you try to apply first aid. On the way to the Vet, lay the animal down comfortably in a box or on your lap, wrapped in a soft blanket or towel to keep him warm. Place his head slightly lower than the rest of his body to help blood reach the brain.

As most of us realize, allowing our pets to roam freely, greatly decreases their chances of a long, healthy life. Other fatal accidents occur through street accidents, garbage poisoning, cruel traps, and gunshot wounds; all of which can be prevented if we adopt an overall attitude of watchfulness and consideration to our pets.

First ecumenical service deserves to repeat

GOODERHAM NEWS

by Mary Hadley

I would like to express my thanks to Vera Riel who reported the Gooderham news for me during my absence this past winter.

Evelyn Alsop has returned from the hospital and is recuperating following knee surgery. Her daughter and son-in-law, Adeline and Ross Hunter, visited last week-end.

Five tables of enthusiastic bridge players gathered at the Tory Hill Recreation Centre last Tuesday evening. Fred Vanderland, just returned from a winter holiday in Florida, took first prize, while Ruth Patton and Mike Collins tied to share second place. Drawing poor hands, Gwen Taylor received the consolation prize.

The Community Centre was the location for the weekly euchre games last Wednesday evening with Anne Franke as hostess.

Lucky door prize winners were Vera Riel and Edith Andrews. High scorers were Honi Billings and Francis Levick. Winners of the most lone hands were Irma Dunford and her husband, Hubert. June Tossignant took the consolation prize.

Ileen and Ivan Hunter, Elda Hunter and Marjorie Hunter motored to Markham last Tuesday to attend the funeral service for their aunt, Mrs. Harvy Rose. Several local residents fondly remember her when she lived in this area several years ago before moving to Markham.

Merle Pickens, from Timmins, spent a few days visiting his mother, Mrs. Mae Pickens, and other family members here. Accompanied by his mother and sister, Vaneta, he motored to St. Catharines to spend the Easter week end with his sister and brother-in-law, Leona and John Mackie.

The organizers of the Good Friday Community Church Service must have felt rewarded at the large number who attended at the Community Centre in Gooderham.

Rev. J.R. Sauve, pastor of the local Pentecostal Church presided at the piano and led in the singing of several hymns. Rev. Maurice Bradley of the United Church was in charge of the order of service. With Bessie Shackleton as accompanist the Wilberforce Choir rendered two numbers which were harmonious and pleasing.

Rev. Sauve spoke on 'Gethsemane' leaving us with the thought that Jesus surrendered his own will to the will of His Father and then calmly went to the cross.

Rev. Maurice Bradley chose as his theme 'The Cross'. He concluded with the thought that because of His great love for all mankind He gave His life. Both speakers were very impressive.

On behalf of the Glamorgan Township Council, Glen Madill, councillor, thanked the two ministers for their efforts in organizing such an excellent service.

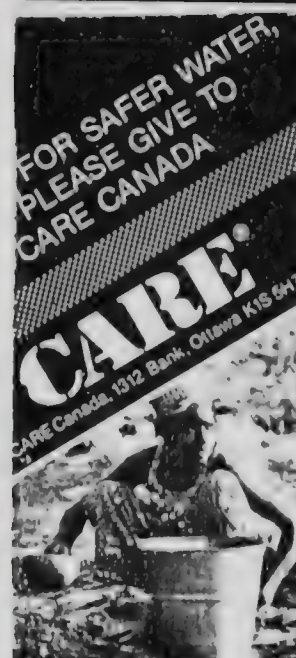

The proceeds from the offering are being given to the Haliburton Hospital Expansion Fund. The presentation will be made later.

A fitting conclusion was the hymn the chorus of which voices the victorious Easter message:

Because He lives I can face tomorrow,
Because He lives, all fear is gone.
Because I know He holds the future.
And life is worth the living,
Just because He lives.

This was the first attempt at an ecumenical Good Friday Christian Community Church Service here. By the response, we hope it will not be the last.

ATTENTION: NON-PROFIT HOUSING ORGANIZATIONS

Create non-profit housing in your community.
Applications are due May 15.

Meeting Ontario's housing needs.

As first advertised last January, applications are being accepted for the development of 6,700 new non-profit housing units across Ontario. Construction of these units will begin in 1988.

Interested groups should apply now as the May 15th deadline for preliminary applications is fast approaching.

The Government of Canada through Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation, and the Province of Ontario through the Ministry of Housing, will be cost-sharing assistance directed to needy households. Market units will be fully funded by the Province of Ontario.

The program is open to all municipal non-profit, private non-profit and non-profit co-operative organizations.

Local community organizations wishing to sponsor non-profit housing projects can apply for government grants to cover the costs of establishing non-profit housing corporations.

Affordable housing for those in need.

This program helps non-profit agencies to create affordable housing for households in need of housing assistance. These include families, senior citizens or physically, developmentally and psychiatrically handicapped persons able to live independently.

In addition, some of the units will be specifically targeted to low-income singles.

Call now for complete details.

Organizations wishing to sponsor such housing projects must submit their preliminary applications by May 15, 1987.

For more information and application packages, contact your nearest Regional Office of the Ministry of Housing as soon as possible.

Pen pals needed for Legion study program with States

KINMOUNT

by Millie Moss

Happy birthday wishes go out to Eleanor Jones who will be thirty-nine on Monday May 11.

Bob Hollobon and Ruby Schell are home from hospital and Ruby would like to take this opportunity to thank her relatives and friends for their calls, cards and flowers while she was undergoing treatments at Toronto's Princess Margaret Hospital. She will be going back for a check up in May and we all wish a lovely little lady the very best.

Bill, Jason and I spent a couple of days in Toronto last week. The weather was beautiful and we managed visits with two different families besides doing a lot of shopping. It was a nice change but I'm afraid we've been away from the big city too long. It was nice to get home! You get the feeling you're on a raceway when you travel the 401 and that certainly is a change from the days when Bill had a helping hand in building that highway back in the late forties, early fifties.

Happy birthday to Pietra Percy on Sunday April 12.

Ethel Swanton is at present in Pinecrest in Bobcaygeon and I'm sure she would appreciate a card or a call.

As of Tuesday April 14, Helen Graham, Mary and John Pyke were still on the sick list. Bonnie-Camerand was listed as very ill in isolation in Ross Memorial. Bill Lilley as of this writing was still in hospital and I'm told that Morley Retty, Mr. Goodhand, Mr. Jackett and Maurice Watson have all been recent hospital patients in Ross Memorial I hope all of you are well very soon.

Results of the Thursday night Drop In Centre at Kinmount Railway Station, April 16 were: ladies high, Violet Schroeter, ladies low, Sabina Burkett, mens high, Esther Graham, mens low, Tracy Wyatt, lone hands, Lloyd Crego.

A nice and unexpected touch to the fun evening was when John McMahon complete in his Legion uniform called out for Lil Platt and presented her with a lovely big box of groceries which she'd won in a draw at the Legion. Congratulations to our hard working and dedicated lady.

A note from the Royal Canadian Legion: Dominion Command has recently been informed by the national foreign relations chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary that their study country this year is Canada. The contact for the pen pal program for the American Legion Auxiliary members under the age of 18 is: Mrs. Jack B. Smith, 5611 E. Scarlett Street, Tucson, Arizona, 85711, U.S.A. The contact for the pen pal program for adult members of the American Legion Auxiliaries is: Mrs. Helen Gottsleben, 1745 Garden Square, Brookings, S.D., 57006, U.S.A. Anyone interested in participating in either of these pen pal programs is requested to correspond directly with the contacts.

As many of you are aware, July 1, 2, 3 and 4, 1987 are the days of Peace and Friendship between the United States and Canada. Many commands, districts, zones and branches will be invited to participate in activities and you are encouraged to do so.

Happy birthday to Peter Cruickshanks on Thursday May 7.

I hope everyone enjoyed Easter. The weather sure was beautiful and many people walked along our road garbed in shorts and summer blouses. We thoroughly enjoyed our day! Bill drove over to Norland and brought Helen Graham, Mom and John Pyke back to Kinmount for Easter Sunday and though they are not in very good health these days, we thought the outing many make them feel better. Bill and Jason Moss arrived later and it was an all round nice day.

Well folks, stay well and happy, read the Echo, give me a call at 488-2353, remember our shut ins, feed the birds and be good to one another, because a good example is the best sermon! Hello from all family and friends in Kinmount to readers of the Echo, in British Columbia, West Germany, Oshawa, Toronto, Florida, Windsor and Rainbow Bridge.

Remember awhile back when there were many comments re the "shoe tree" on Highway 503 out of Kinmount? Well, if you drive from Kinmount towards Haliburton on the right side of County Road 1, you'll see a home with a beautiful big pine tree out front, completely covered in red big bows. Outstanding.

Volunteering is fulfilling

By Jim Wilkinson

Have you ever thought of being a volunteer for two or three hours a week? Our community organizations are in constant need of volunteers. The Haliburton County Information Centre is operating a Volunteer Registry to match the skills and interests of individuals to the organization that will most benefit. I have been a volunteer for several years at the Haliburton County Information

Centre and find it a very fulfilling experience. Also, as a former teacher, I do several hours a week as a tutor to poor readers. You need not worry about what you can do, the training is up to the organization and they will be encouraged by your interest. Your help is needed. Give us a call and tell us about yourself and we'll investigate the most valuable location for your help. Call us or drop in and talk it over.

Pat Gallen, president of the Wilberforce Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion on the right and Reg. Schofield, poppy chairman, on the left recently visited Sunnybrook Hospital where they joined Legionnaires from across Ontario to learn of the growing need for hospital renovation and expansion. Branch 624 will donate $1,000. to the fund.

Communion proceeds go to hospital

WILBERFORCE NEWS

by Winnie Schofield

A Good Friday Community Service was held at 9 a.m. at the Community Centre in Gooderham under the direction of J.R. Sauve of the Pentecostal Church and Maurice Bradley of the Tory Hill Pastoral charge of the United Church. Rev. Sauve's message was on 'Gethsemane' and Mr. Bradley's on 'The Cross' with beautiful Easter hymns. The capable accompaniment of the Wilberforce Choir made for a beautiful service. In attendance were 125 people and over $600 was given for the Haliburton Hospital Expansion Fund. A social hour was enjoyed at the close of service.

Joining the Spring arrivals in the flower world are red tulips, many coloured hyacinths and white petals of the blood root. In the bush can be seen trilliums, red and white and adder tongue, all with ready to open buds and the fern growth of the Dutchman's britches.

Our lively Bridge Club, held weekly in the Tory Hill Recreation Centre, is drawing an enthusiastic crowd. Five tables were occupied last Tuesday evening. Fred Vanderlanor walked off with first prize, Ruth Patton claimed second and Mike Collins third. Gwen Taylor was proud winner of the consolation prize.

Absolutely perfect weather greeted flocks of tourists here for the Easter holiday. Members of the Recreation board are to be congratulated on their superb service given with cheerful proficiency while supplying hungry folks with pancakes, sausage and syrup. Hours later, when the last visitor had been served, they still had to finish this strenuous day by moving tables and chairs, sweeping up the floor and preparing for the coming evening dance. A large crowd of people attended this event and toured the room admiring and selecting items of interest from the well stocked tables.

As the bowling season comes to an end Captain Sandy Smith is making good contributions to the scores for the Topaz. Sandy hit the jack pot with a 300 game last Wednesday, very nice indeed.

The book exchange mentioned last week was a mistake. I'm very sorry. It is this week that the big change over takes place. From April 13 to 20 an interesting exhibit from the Royal Ontario Museum was on display at the Monmouth Library. This had to do with fossils, myths, legends and folklore and was accompanied by samples and illustrated booklets of explanation. This was a rare chance to discover what is known about existing finds. Unfortunately we were permitted to have the display for just one week and it was gone before many people were aware of its presence.

Birthday wishes sent to many residents

MINDEN NEWS

by Maizie Austen

A belated happy birthday to John Bradley who's birthday was Monday April 20 and Tessie Davis whose 96th birthday was on Tuesday April 21.

Joyce and Wilfred Harrison spent Easter weekend visiting family and friends in the area.

Dorothy, Allan, John and Janine Sharkey visited Dorothy's parents, Laureen and Eldon McCracken last weekend.

If you have any news for me to include in this column please call 286-3607. Thank you.

Margaret, John and Meagan Bradley of Toronto spent last weekend with Margaret's parents, Wanda and Lawrence Hogg. We hope Margaret's neck is feeling better soon following an accident.

Hugh Lester of Pine Springs, Mary-Lou, Carl, Jennifer and Jeffrey Packard of Haliburton visit us over the Easter weekend.

Hint for the week: Use some vinegar in your dish rinse water to cut the soap and make your dishes sparkle. Vinegar can also be used as a softener in your clothes rinse water.

Happy birthday to Garwood Stevenson on Saturday April 25. Have a good day Garwood, and Dora Dawson on Thursday April 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stevenson spent some time with Velma and Judy Stevenson over the Easter weekend.

Sincere sympathy to the family and friends of Hazel Parish and Oscar Horsley, who died recently.

Would anyone in the area or know of anyone who can fix a clock on a clock radio? It tries to work but the numbers refuse to fall down into place.

A exhibition of photographs by Peter Herlihey, water colours and oils by Ed Handcock and portraits by Yvonne Guida will be on display at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery from April 20 to May 2.

We wish Matthew Mangery a speedy recovery.

The Thrift Shop beside the Times will be open Friday and Saturday April 24 and 25 from 1:30 to 4:00 p.m.

Helen, Allan and Lesley Anne Brydson of Bracebridge and Garnet Moore of Bramalea visited with Irene and Bill Moore recently.

Les and Minnie Robinson of Lindsay and Irene Robinson of Havelock visited Florence Robinson.

Congratulations to Vera Bagshaw on winning the clock radio at the I.G.A.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Clement and family of Toronto spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Cowan.

Winners of the Tuesday night euchre games at the Lochlin Centre were the following: Lone hands Isobel Saunders, others were Ruby Francis, Bessie Burk, Orville Francis and Carl Francis. The next Lochlin games will be held on Tuesday April 28.

That's all for this week. Drive with care and watch for the children getting on and off their school buses. I hope to see you all next week.

BE A HERO

The Haliburton County Development Corporation is assisting the federal government in a search for outstanding business achievers in 1987. We are looking for nominees for the Canada Awards for Business Excellence. This could be the year that your success receives the recognition it deserves. Winners will be honoured at a prestigious national event, September in Halifax.

Go for it!

ALL BUSINESSES ARE ELIGIBLE

The awards are open to all business enterprises in Canada of all sizes and in all fields of economic activity. Eligibility criteria for each category are provided in the 1987 program entry questionnaire.

ENTRY PROCEDURE

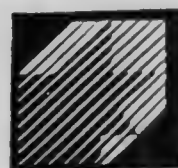

Enter as many categories as you wish. For each category, you will be asked to complete a short questionnaire and to describe your achievements in four typewritten pages. Deadline for entries is May 15, 1987.

THE AWARDS

• The Small Business Award recognizes achievements by businesses with annual sales of less than $2.0 million. (Small businesses are also eligible to enter the other awards categories.)

The seven other categories are:

- The Productivity Award
- The Marketing Award
- The Entrepreneurship Award
- The Labour Management Co-operation award
- The Innovation Award
- The Invention Award
- The Industrial Design Award

Family is not kept separate from the church AS OTHERS SEE IT unfair the consequences are of his act. When the heart is hardened to the truth about yourself, any punishment seems unfair. If all tends to reinforce our sense of being misunderstood, unfairly treated, victims of an uncaring family and God.

Moreover, Cain is scared! He doesn't want to be up front about it, but he is plain scared. When you have exploited others, been cruel to another, you begin to fear that everyone else will treat you that way. That is why nations fear each other so much - because of the sin that has ruled their own hearts. That is why we think people will cheat and steal from us - because that power is in us, too.

So Cain, now thinking that this evil thing that lives in his own heart controls everyone else in the world, pleads with God not to be banished, not to be set to wandering homelessly on the face of the earth without a place to hide.

Now the Lord does a strange thing here. He puts a mark on Cain that says "Hands Off" - a tattoo on his forehead that says, "This man is protected by the Universal Security System. Anyone bringing harm to him will answer to God himself."

The strange thing about this is that although Cain is going to be expelled from the Lord's presence and set to being a hippie the rest of his life, the Lord God, Himself, is going to go with him!

The punishment, judgement of God is swift and sure. God does not abandon, but goes wandering with us. He will go with Cain, out of the Garden, and labour for his restoration to himself, the earth and his brother's cries.

Well, the story of Cain and Abel and God and the end of the Garden is about a lot of things. It is about God's freedom and His unwillingness to be controlled and the same freedom that He gives His children.

But the central, most important issue in the story is that the question about why we fight with our brothers and sisters comes out of our recognition that God is somehow involved when we do. Our lives are not lived in a void, but they are lived in relation to God, who is also a friend of my brothers and sisters. We know that anyone who fights with his sister or violates a brother must deal with God.

Now we would prefer that things were different. We would like to deal with God in church and in our prayers and deal with brothers elsewhere, under other conditions. "Business is business," Dad says, "and church is for God". But Jesus said, "If you have had a fight with your brother, don't go to the altar, to God, until you and your brother are reconciled."

But we do not want to give in. Rather, we nurse and nurture our sense of unfairness, injustice. Like Cain, we holler about the punishment and are afraid that others will do unto us before we do unto them." So we continue in anger, jealousy and fear.

That, of course, is not the end of the story. God nonetheless goes with us. In spite of our sulking, violent ways, in spite of our welcome of the lion into our hearts, nevertheless, God goes with us in our homeless, searching, wandering. He continues to hope that we will be reconciled, friends with one another - especially our brothers and sisters.

attention of the public. I think our efforts in Minden over the past three years have been a part of that growing awareness and we're glad our sponsor has agreed to continue support for this race." She noted the $10,000 purse will make the Minden Sled Dog Derby one of the five largest in Canada.

The size of the purse will also ensure that the Minden event attracts the top drivers in North America.

The winner of the eight dog competition will receive $2,000 while the four dog champion will be awarded $1,000. The remainder of the $10,000 purse will be shared among the racers in each division finishing fifteenth or better.

(reflective letters - gold letters on a brown background) was accepted.

An application for an amendment to the Zoning By-Law on Part of Lots 10 - 13, Concession VIII, Township of Harburn, lands of Glen Hodgson, from Rural to Extractive Industrial was approved for processing.

Council will buy 60,000 gallons of Non-Asphaltic Dust Control Oil supplied, hauled and applied by Canam Oil Services Limited at 76 cents per gallon, subject to the approval of the District Municipal Engineer.

Council concurred with a resolution of the Township of Horton regarding capital funding assistance to small municipalities with populations under 5,000.

An application for an amendment to the Official Plan by Ruth Still in Eagle Lake from Residential to Hamlet was approved in principal for processing.

The Municipality of Dysart will work to prepare a preliminary Hazard Wastes Program with the Ministry of Environment Officials and a proposal will come back to Council for consideration.

Blacks Home Hardware was advised that the site proposed for a Propane Refilling Station is not acceptable to Council due to the following: it contravenes the rear lot setback requirement, a 9' right of way at rear of the property would be blocked, and a building permit is required for this refill station as a permanent structure. Considering these problems Council noted it cannot agree to this proposal.

Minden WI holds election

By Jeanne Sears

The reading of the verse Springtime, by vice president Mrs. C. Wilson began the April 15 meeting of Minden Women's Institute. Twenty members answered the roll call and one guest was welcomed. The yearly reports were read by Mrs. L. Cox, Mrs. Kernohan and Mrs. Moore. A craft for a sale at convention at North Bay, a cushion made by Mrs. A. Taylor, will be sent.

On the draw for three gifts, winners were Evelyn Cox, Vera Wilson and Jeanne Sears.

Mrs. D. Cox and Mrs. Kernohan reported on a leadership day they attended. A course on short order meals will be held May 6 from 11:30 and anyone may attend.

A fire-proof box containing the branch minute books will go into the Museum. Voting delegates at District Annual are Mrs. Lacey, Mrs. L. Cox, Mrs. Kernohan, Mrs. Wilson and alternate Mrs. Sears.

Mrs. Lyman Cox, past president, presided at the election of officers with Mrs. Kernohan taking notes. A new officer is branch co-ordinator who collects and condenses a report from the Minden branch and sends these on to the District. The person elected was Mrs. C. Cox. Another change was convener of Agriculture and Canadian Industries, Mrs. D. Berry.

The next meeting is May 20 at 2 p.m. with all ladies welcome.

Be careful with gas container

INFORMATION

Are you tuning up your gasoline powered lawnmower and garden equipment, getting them ready for summer use? If so, you will be filling gasoline containers.

The Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations recommend caution when filling gasoline containers. Did you know that you should never fill the container to the top? Gasoline expands when warmed and if room is not left for expansion, you risk a fire or explosion. When the rated capacity mark is reached on the container, do not add more. Never fill or transfer gasoline from one container to another inside a car trunk or boat. Vapour released during filling will settle in a low spot and can be ignited by a small spark of flame. Fill your container in an open area where the vapour can escape.

Lawnmowers, chainsaws or other gasoline powered equipment should never be fuelled while still hot. Vapours could come in contact with the hot engine parts or the muffler and ignite. Never store gasoline in your home, workshop or basement, always store in an approved container in the garage or garden shed. It is not advisable to use gasoline as a solvent for cleaning paint brushes or tools, this can also create enough vapour in a room to be ignited by a spark from an electric light switch or a furnace pilot light. By using caution when handling and storing gasoline you will avoid a serious accident.

If you need help with your Tax Return, completing forms or have a question that needs answering, contact the Haliburton County Information Centre in the Municipal Building, Milne St., Minden, open every Tuesday 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. or call 286-4100. Our Haliburton office situated in the Drag River Municipal Building, Maple Ave., is open 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. daily or call 457-2733. To have your Tax Return completed, please call for an appointment.
